TRY TO BLOW UP ST. PAUL'S WOMEN PLANT BOMBS

POLICE FOIL MILITANT PLOT

LONDON, May 7.—A bomb with a clockwork mechanism was found today near the high altar in St. Paul's Cathedral, one of the most historic buildings in Britain.

The police assert the bomb was placed in the world-famous structure by militant suffragettes in an attempt to wreck the edifice because of their anger at the defeat of the woman suffrage bill in Parliament. The discovery of the bomb has caused a sensation and already parts of the cathedral usually open to the public and visited by thousands of tourists have been closed.

TWO OTHER BOMBS FOUND NEAR BY.

A few minutes later, another bomb was discovered near the building occupied by the Star, a Liberal newspaper, which has been supporting the government in its fight against the granting of the franchise to women. A third bomb was discovered in the business district, near a building occupied by a firm of wholesale chemists. But for the vigilance of the police and of special watchmen, a large area of London would probably have been blown up.

The infernal machine was found through the ticking of the clock which, with more time, according to the police statement, would have exploded the bomb and might have demolished the finest portion of the cathedral. The bomb was found by a verger. The bomb lay beneath the chair at the bishop's throne, at the head of the choir, the most imposing spot in the building.

Two Detonators in Bomb.

The bomb was done up in brown paper. At the Bridewell police station, where it was examined, it was found to be painted black and to contain two detonators, attached to an electric battery. Among other things was a black substance resembling coal. Later it was removed to the Home Office for expert examination.

The police declared the placing of the bomb in the cathedral the most daring attempt at outrage since Lloyd-George's country place was partially wrecked. According to the authorities, the militants whom they have styled "bomb-setters" have organized dynamite squads as a means of getting revenge for the action of Parliament in regard to the suffrage measure.

There were absolutely no clews to the identity of the person who placed the bomb in the cathedral. The cathedral was closed last night, and the police thought the infernal machine was carried in during the public visiting hours yesterday.

Cathedral Closely Guarded.

The dean of the cathedral conducted the regular vesper service last night and stood a few feet from the place where the bomb was found at 8 o'clock today. In and about the building plain clothesmen have been on guard for several days, but none of them saw anyone entering the cathedral with a package.

As a result of the finding of the three bombs the police took additional measures of precaution this afternoon. At some of the buildings already protected the guards were doubled.

The "arsonettes," as the arson squads have been termed, set three fires today. They burned a pavilion at the cricket field at Bishop's Park, Fulham, in the West End. Later they set fire to a vacant house at Fletcher, in the north of the city. Another fire was set in a lumber yard at Lambeth. At the first two fires suffragette placards and quantities of chemicals were discovered.

BANK MEN OPPOSE PUBLICITY

Whether secrecy or publicity shall rule at the hearing of the suit to find out how George W. Coleman robbed the National City Bank of Cambridge, of which they were directors, today rests squarely upon the shoulders of Edwin Dresser, George W. Gale and David Barber, the directors named in the action brought by Receiver Bates.

If they say the word, the doors of the star chamber session can be opened at once. They alone oppose publicity. WHY they oppose it is a question to which the public demands an answer. "What have they to conceal?" is demanded in many quarters.

Directors Work for Secrecy.

Here is what leading figures say of the hearing:

MASTER HARRIS—I would welcome a ruling from the court so I could act regardless of the desires of any contending parties.

DIRECTOR EDWIN DRESSER—I don't care what they (the public) ask.

ROBERT M. MORSE, counsel for Dresser—It is only the wishes of my clients that cause me to ask for a private hearing. I don't see what good it would do to publish the details.

T. P. KANE, Acting Comptroller of the Currency—I can see no need for a private hearing of the suit.

RECEIVER JOHN L. BATES—The public is entitled to know the facts.

GEORGE W. GALE—Nothing.

DAVID BARBER—Nothing.

Why are the directors afraid of a public hearing? The people demand an answer.

Dresser Won't Give Reason.

The AMERICAN in an editorial, asked Messrs. Dresser, Gale and Barber just what they had to conceal and called upon them individually to declare just why they were afraid of a public hearing.

Edwin Dresser refused to read the editorial. The other two ex-directors turned their backs as a reporter of the AMERICAN talked with Mr. Dresser.

"I want nothing to do with your editorial," persisted Mr. Dresser.

Q.—What is your real reason for demanding a star chamber hearing?

A.—I don't think that it concerns you and I am in no mood to discuss it.

Q.—But the AMERICAN, upon

SCHOOL STRIKE SPREADS

The strike of the pupils in the Ellis and Shepard schools, North Cambridge, has spread to such proportions that the Cambridge school authorities took active today to stamp out the revolt.

The pupils are just as determined their demands for shorter hours shall be granted. Several hundred of them have planned to march on Cambridge City Hall and make formal protest to the city authorities.

In the absence of Mayor Edward J. Barry, who is in Washington, the leaders of the strikers will place their demands before Acting Mayor Peter Sullivan, chairman of the Board of Aldermen.

Several fist fights resulted today when the pupils assembled for the morning session at the Ellis school.

Supt. Michael H. Fitzgerald today obtained the names of all the leaders of the striking pupils. He said drastic punishment would be meted out to those boys active in the strike. Just what form of punishment was decided on he would not say. Some of the girls will be refused promotion.

Lull Defers the Storm.

There was a lull before the storm when the pupils assembled today. To throw off all suspicion as to their leaders, those most actively interested in yesterday's demonstration were early in their seats. On the way to school, however, and at a safe distance, some of the boys wore pasteboard badges with the word "striker," and others reversed their caps.

Submaster Frank Buckley of the Ellis school and Miss Evelyn J. Locke, head of the Shepard school, reported few absentees.

Miss Dorothy Smith, fifteen years old, of No. 40 Pemberton street, one of the leaders of the girls in the Ellis school, adv. 4 the boys today to refrain from roughhouse tactics.

"The girls are siding with the boys in this fight for shorter hours," said Miss Smith today. "We want no violence. But we do demand our rights. We know they are just and we insist upon them. We are all going to enlist our fathers and mothers in our cause. Backed by them the school authorities won't dare to refuse our demands."

The pupils demand, instead of the two sessions daily, one long session from 8:30 to 1:30 in the afternoon similar to the hours in the Russell school. Shepard school pupils sympathize with their mates in the Ellis school. They join in the march on City Hall this afternoon.

Emphatic in Demands.

Miss Locke of the Shepard school said today:

"I haven't been approached by the boys, but seeing them in animated groups yesterday, I called in some of the boys who were leaders. They told me what they wanted in a straightforward manner. I advised them not to let their demands interfere with their school work, and not to do anything which would bring discredit to themselves or the schools. They were emphatic in their promises and I look for a speedy settlement of this trouble."

SALEM CAMP AIDS MAINE MEMORIAL

Charles A. Dickerson, commander of Ensign Worth Bagley Camp No. 6, Everett, United Spanish War Veterans, sent the AMERICAN today a check for $10, the Everett camp's donation toward the Maine Memorial fund. The decision to make the contribution followed the explanation at the department convention in Salem of the arrangements Mr. Hearst had made in the matter of paying for the "Maine Memorial Monument" in New York, by which he is to duplicate by a personal gift all contributions received.

DOROTHY SMITH, fifteen-year-old girl, active in Cambridge school strike who warned the boy strikers against any "roughhouse."

"We want no violence, but demand our rights. We are going to enlist our fathers and mothers in our cause."

Home Rule Bill Again Presented In the Commons

LONDON, May 7.—The home rule bill granting autonomy to Ireland was introduced in the House of Commons today and read for the first time. The bill passed in the last session, but was rejected by the peers. If it passes this session and again next session in Commons, it will become the law of the land irrespective of the Lords' action.

The Irish Nationalists led a tremendous demonstration when the bill was introduced. Premier Asquith announced that the second reading would be taken up on the first Monday after the reassembling of Parliament. He expressed the opinion that the debate on the bill would be formal as the financial matters and other important issues involved in the bill would be settled in the committee hearings.

AGAINST PRISON PENSIONS.

The Legislative Committee on Public Service today reported against a bill for the establishment of a retirement system for prison officers and instructors.

Mattapan Women Want Step-Stones at Trolley Stops

Mattapan women claim that the steps of the cars in some sections of that district are too high, especially for a woman wearing the bobble or his tight-shirt successors.

Attorney John F. Duffy, Carney building, president of the Mattapan Improvement Association, is espousing their cause. Through him the women ask the Boston Elevated to put granite stepping-off stones at certain stops where the distance from car step to the ground is great.

WALTHAM MAN JAILED FOR THEFT

R. W. Dolling, twenty-five, of Waltham, was sentenced to a month in the House of Correction by Judge Grover at Dedham today, charged with stealing "a sum of money less than $100," from the Cook Publishing Company of Elgin, N. Y.

Navy League Asks President's Aid for More Battleships

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Recommending a "continuing and consistent program of naval construction," a committee of the Navy League, headed by Governor O'Neal of Alabama, called upon President Wilson today and delivered to him resolutions adopted by the league asking for the establishment of a council of national defence to formulate the country's naval policy and insist upon appropriations for more battleships. The resolutions also recommend legislation to reform the system of promoting naval officers.

War With Japan Inevitable, Says Charles Towne

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Former Senator Charles Towne, formerly counsel to the Emperor of Korea, said today, after a long talk with President Wilson:

"Soon or late we shall have to fight Japan for the control of the Pacific. People who do not understand that do not know the Japanese. I have been in close touch with her people and have dealt personally with Marquis Ito and the leading men of Japan. I knew what I am talking about.

"It is plain that Japan must have room to expand. Crowded into an area no bigger than Montana are 50,000,000 people who are aggressive, ambitious, proud and intensely self-confident. When they believe the hour has arrived to war with us for the mastery of the Pacific, there will be no help for it, or excuses."

Mr. Towne said it was the unanimous opinion of the naval attaches at Tokio that Japan would strike at the United States.

PELLETIER, GUEST OF AUTO OPERATORS, SAYS: "BE CAREFUL"

District Attorney Pelletier was the speaker at the last of the season's smokers held by the Massachusetts Automobile Operators' Association at its quarters on Boylston street. Mr. Pelletier gave an instructive talk about the motor law from the District Attorney stand point. He urged the drivers to be more careful in the operation of their machines, so as to gain the respect and cooperation of the other users of the highway.

He explained how criticism had been leveled at his official conduct in the matter of his efforts to decrease violations of the laws, or they would be made more stringent.

REPORT PROGRESS ON "L" DEMANDS

Conferences were resumed today between committees representing the Boston Street Carmen's Union and the Elevated Company seeking to readjust the wage and working condition schedule under which the men are now employed. Both the management and the men say that progress is being made and that the best of feeling obtains. The men's union meet at No. 724 Washington street tomorrow in the morning, afternoon and midnight sessions, at which times reports will be submitted by the conference committee.

VOLUNTARILY PAYS BATH'S HIGHEST TAX

BATH, Me., May 7.—Chairman James C. Moltham of the Board of Assessors announced that Ex-Mayor J. S. Hyde had made a voluntary declaration of $65,000 on his personal estate, which will increase his personal estate to $125,000. This will make Mr. Hyde pay the highest personal tax in Bath.

"BOSTON MY HOME," SAYS TETRAZZINI

NEW YORK, May 7.—Tetrazzini, sailing for Europe, waved an American flag enthusiastically, and declared that hereafter she will call Boston her home, and will always be glad to get back to that musical city.

Three Men Buried by Bad Cave-in on Clarendon Street

Three workmen were partially buried this afternoon on Clarendon street, near Copley Hall, when earth and gravel caved in on them while they were making an excavation. A fire alarm was sounded from Box 89, and the firemen assisted other laborers in an attempt to rescue the three men. It was reported that a fourth laborer was completely buried under the dirt. The three workmen were buried up to their necks.

GET FIRST REPORT ON 'BLUE SKY' LAW

A "Blue Sky" law regulating the sale of shares and securities and similar to the law passed in Kansas some months ago for the protection of the investing public, was reported by the sub-committee of the legislative Committee on Banks and Banking in the House today. It provides that full information on each stock be kept on file with the Commissioner of Corporations. All dealers licensed shall pay a fee of $50 and all agents and salesmen a fee of $5. The act is designed to take effect on January 1, 1914.

PENNSYLVANIA HOUSE PASSES SLAVE RESOLVE

HARRISBURG, Pa., May 7.—The House passed today a resolution providing for the appointment by Governor Tener of five commissioners, who are to make a complete investigation of "white slavery" in Pennsylvania, and recommend remedial legislation at the session of 1915.

PEACE NEAR IN PATERSON STRIKE.

PATERSON, N. J., May 7.—Indications today pointed to a speedy settlement of the silk mill strike here, which has been in force many weeks. More than 200 employes of the Kluges Silk Company reached an agreement today.

BERGER FATALLY WOUNDED IN DUEL

PARIS, May 7.—M. Berger, famous French senator, was mortally wounded today in a duel with M. Breitmayer.

WARREN LINE BUILDING 3 BOSTON SHIPS

A. J. Wakefield, an English newspaper man, who arrived in Boston today en route for Canada on the Warren liner Sagamore, stated that the Warren line had three 10,000-ton passenger ships building for the Boston-Liverpool service and that they would be ready in the Spring of 1914.

Mr. Wakefield said that he was sure of his facts, although his statement cannot be confirmed by the Boston agents of Furness, Withy & Co., Limited, the new owners of the Warren line. It is thought that the owners of the Warren line are delaying the announcement until they have made their peace with the steamship conference which controls passenger-carrying arrangements.

JURY CHOSEN TO TRY JACK JOHNSON

CHICAGO, May 7.—The jury which is to try Jack Johnson, negro pugilist, on charges of violating the white slave law, was completed and sworn in at noon today. Belle Schrieber, the former Milwaukee manicurist, was called as the first witness. Johnson is charged with transporting her from one State to another for immoral purposes in October, 1910.

CHILDREN SEE FATHER SHOOT SELF AND WIFE

Clinging in terror to their mother's dress, little Madeline Mahoney, nine, and her brother Willie, seven, two East Cambridge school children, saw their father shoot their mother three times today, probably fatally wounding her. A moment later, after a woman neighbor had rescued the children at the risk of her life, the father, William J. Mahoney, twenty-nine, fired a bullet into his own brain, dying instantly.

The wife and mother, Mrs. Myrtle Mahoney, still conscious, was taken to the Cambridge Relief Hospital where her name was placed on the dangerous list.

Thick Hair Diverts Bullet.

That the woman was not slain in the presence of her children was due to her large roll of hair, which diverted a bullet intended for her left temple, so that it glanced off the side of her head. The other two bullets struck her in the left side of her body and in the palm of her left hand.

The double shooting occurred in the kitchen of the Mahoney flat at No. 34 Spring street after Mrs. Mahoney had refused to admit her husband into the home which she was supporting. While a neighbor, Mrs. Rachel White, stood by making an attempt to avert a quarrel, the angered husband burst in the locked kitchen door with his shoulder. The wife was cooking breakfast.

Neighbor Rescues Children.

Despite her injuries, the plucky mother managed to crawl up a flight of stairs behind Mrs. White, who at the risk of her own life had rescued the children from their mother's side in the midst of the shooting. As she finally fell to the floor exhausted Mrs. Mahoney exclaimed:

"My God, he's shot me! Take good care of my two babies."

Mahoney, who had been separated from his wife for a week, went to the house shortly before 7 o'clock. When Mrs. Mahoney refused to let him come in, he went upstairs and entered the hall through the rear door of the flat occupied by Mrs. White. The latter accompanied him downstairs and heard the husband talk from the hallway with his wife.

"Let me in!" Mahoney shouted.

"What do you want here now?" his wife asked.

"I only want to get some papers out of the sewing machine," Mahoney exclaimed. "Let me in."

"I won't," his wife replied. "Now you're out, stay out."

As soon as he had broken through the door, Mahoney drew a revolver. At the sight the wife screamed. The children, frightened, ran to her and hid in her dress, with their faces peeping out toward their. He fired three shots.

Mahoney, probably believing his wife dead, pointed the revolver at himself, pulled the trigger and fell dead, a few feet from his wife's prostrate body.

"I'm not dead," said Mrs. Mahoney to the neighbors. "Get help—send for the doctor."

The plucky woman never lost consciousness. An ambulance rushed her to the Relief hospital. On the way she talked with the attendant. At the hospital she chatted with the nurses. Then they placed her on the operating table, gave her an anesthetic and she became unconscious for the first time.

"I want to live and work for my children," she replied. "I just want to live for them."

CAMBRIDGE children who saw their father, William J. Mahoney, shoot their mother and then kill himself, today. At top, Madeline Mahoney; below, William Mahoney.

MELLEN GRIPS NEW ENGLAND, SAYS HOMANS

WASHINGTON, May 7.—That the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad had a monopoly of transportation facilities in New England was the declaration today of Robert S. Homans of the Boston Chamber of Commerce in his statement before the Interstate Commerce Commission. Homans appeared at a hearing given by the commission in its investigation into practices of railroads in the New England States.

Homans said the New Haven not only has a monopoly in the railroad business, but also in the steamship lines running out of Boston, which control all the steamers in Long Island Sound, and owns the greater part of the trolley lines in that section. He said the New Haven acquired a majority of stock from the Boston & Maine Railroad—100,000 shares—and that the acquisition of this stock was illegal under the Massachusetts charter.

Scores Poor Service.

The New Haven road retained its interest in this stock, he said, by forming the Boston Railroad Holding Company, the charter of which permits any railroad in New England to hold stock in that concern. Before the acquisition of the Boston & Maine, he said, competition existed in New England, but under the interlocking interests thus formed competition ceased.

Mr. Homans charged the road rendered poor service in Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and Vermont, supporting his accusation by testimony submitted at earlier hearings.

Declaring that figures can lie and charging that the pamphlet prepared by Louis D. Brandeis represents an unfair manipulation of the accounts of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the Boston & Maine railroads, Charles F. Choate, Jr., counsel for President Mellen of the former road, argued that no reliance should be placed in the conclusions drawn by Brandeis.

He attacked Brandeis' personality, saying that the latter is vindictive, and also attacked Accountant Brown of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the man who made the financial tables for Brandeis, declaring that he is an expert hanger and is unqualified for such a task as the examination of the accounts of a railroad.

Choate declared there was an understanding between Brandeis and Brown as to what course the examination should take and what conclusions should be drawn. He said that Governor Dahl's Commerce and Industry Commission making a similar examination reported the same figures as the Brandeis report, but disagreed on principles of application.

He declared that President Mellen was not consulted during the examination.

Mr. Choate received the history of the transfer of stock of the Boston & Maine Railroad to the New Haven road.

"Devil and the Deep Sea."

He said that after legal difficulties had been encountered, 110,000 shares of Boston & Maine held by the New Haven were transferred by the company to Mr. Mellen and by Mr. Mellen to John Billard of New Haven. Mr. Billard paid $125 a share for the stock and a year later resold it to the New Haven for $150 a share.

Edgar J. Rich, general solicitor for the Boston & Maine Railroad, declared that New Englanders demand express service at freight rates. He said that the two roads are competing and that poor service is not chargeable to any combination.

He exhibited tables to show that given by the Boston & Maine compares favorably with that given by other roads. Declaring that the road is "in the clutches of the 'devil and the deep sea' he appealed for "a cessation of criticism and an elimination of hysteria."

Take Police Slight of Press at Fires to Commissioner

Fire Boston newspaper men have filed a complaint with Police Commissioner O'Meara against six patrolmen of the City square station in Charlestown. During a fire on Medford street yesterday afternoon, the policemen refused to recognize the official fire badges and admit the reporters within the lines for the collection of news.

These badges are issued by Fire Commissioner Cole and have always been recognized by the Boston police. Their use is important in collecting news of fires.

A very grave addition to the charges is made by three of the reporters, who say they were roughly handled by the police. Sergeant Ferris was one of the officials who refused to recognize the badges. Three of the men who refused to recognize the badges were Patrolmen Dennis Shea, John T. Reardon and Francis T. McGovern.

The newspaper men made a demand on Commissioner O'Meara for a complete and thorough investigation and punishment for the men who have acted contrary to police rules.

HIGGINSON GETS 43 BRITISH DOGS

On the Warren liner Sagamore, which arrived here from Liverpool today, was a pack of forty-one English pedigreed fox hounds and two terriers from the celebrated Milton kennels in England. They were consigned to A. Henry Higginson, master of hounds of the Middlesex hunt, and will be sent to his estate at South Lincoln.

NEW YORK CENTRAL FACES $4,000 FINE

A jury in the United States District Court today found the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company guilty in eight of twenty-eight counts of violation of the interstate commerce laws regulating the house of labor for employes. The penalty in each count is $500.

ROXBURY BOY ON ARABIC, SAILS ON TOUR OF WORLD

The White Star liner Arabic sailed today for Liverpool. Among her passengers were members of the Columbia Park Club, boys of San Francisco, who are circumnavigating the globe under the direction of Major Sidney S. Piexotto, supporting themselves on the way by giving athletic and musical performances. Francis McLaughlin of Roxbury joined the boys here and will continue the tour with them. Miss Anna Hauser, for fifteen years matron of the Episcopal Home for Destitute and Orphan Children in East Boston, sailed on the ship. She goes to live with her brother, President Hyronimus Baumgartner of the Canton of Zug, Switzerland. Other passengers were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Frothingham of Boston, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Whitney of Newburyport and the Manchester Players, who have just completed an engagement at the Plymouth Theatre.

FRANCONIA HAS 2,482 PASSENGERS

The Cunarder Franconia will arrive in East Boston today with the biggest list of passengers ever brought to Boston from a British port. She has 123 saloon, 648 cabin and 1,709 steerage passengers, a total of 2,482. The record has been held by the Ivernia. She brought 2,381 passengers in 1906. In 1907 the ill-fated White Star liner Republic brought 2,509 passengers from Mediterranean ports and the Azores.

Report Resolution to Authorize State Proportional Taxes

The Legislative Committee on Taxation today unanimously reported a resolve providing for an amendment to the State constitution to empower the Legislature to levy proportional assessments, rates and taxes upon all real estate and also upon personal property and incomes, except incomes derived from real estate lying within the Commonwealth.

The resolve provides that the tax rates shall be proportional upon subjects, provided that the Legislature may grant reasonable exemptions and abatements and may exempt any property of which the income is taxed.

The committee agreed to report this measure and to turn, down all other big propositions dealing with the tax question this year. Accordingly, the committee reported adversely on Governor Foss' inaugural recommendation for taxation of incomes, personal property and wild and forest lands.

ASK WILSON TO SUSPEND CIVIL SERVICE BOARD

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Resolutions have been adopted by the National Fair Play Association requesting that President Wilson immediately suspend the present civil service commissioners, pending investigation by the Senate committee.

The Republicans have, by manipulation and by executive order," the resolution states, "covered approximately 60 per cent. of the positions under federal patronage for the purpose of protecting by 'life tenure' the 'pets' of Republicanism, thereby eliminating the possibility of fair distribution of federal appointments by the present administration."

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX, noted American authoress, presented at English Court today.

LONDON, May 7.—Mrs. Ella Wheeler Wilcox will be presented at court today. The famous American authoress arrived from North Africa yesterday and found a note from the American Embassy notifying her she would be introduced to the King and Queen at court May 7.

She immediately became busy as she had not a dress suitable for the occasion, and was forced to have one altered.

It is said the King and Queen are very fond of Mrs. Wilcox's poetry and it is known that King Edward and Queen Alexandra were two of her greatest admirers.

MRS. COOKE'S SUIT ON TRIAL DOCKET

HARTFORD, Ct., May 7.—The divorce suit of Mrs. Marinda Clarke Cooke against her former clergyman husband, Jere Knode Balcom Cooke, who eloped with Floretta Whaley, has been placed on the docket of the Hartford County Superior Court. Cooke has ninety days from the date the papers were served on him within which to file an answer if he desires.

YOUTH HELD IN FIREBUG HUNT IN CHARLESTOWN

The Charlestown police today detained an eighteen-year-old youth, pending a thorough investigation by the State and Boston police into the three-alarm fire in the Boston & Maine haybed in Charlestown. The authorities said the fire was undoubtedly incendiary.

The suspect was taken to the Charlestown police station by Patrolman M. M. Rhea and held on the charge of being a suspicious person. The police claimed the youth was the first person to inform a Boston & Maine watchman that a fire had broken out in the haybeds. The youth was questioned by Captain George D. Yeaton of the station and later by State Inspector Thomas Eustace. The police stated that the suspect has a long record in Charlestown District Court.

The police also investigated today the three-alarm fire in the Parker & Parker lumber yard, which was also declared to have been of incendiary origin.

ARREST 10 IN FRANCE IN PLOT ON ALFONSO

PARIS, May 7.—Heavily guarded by government agents, police and soldiers, King Alfonso of Spain, accompanied by Conde Alvaro De Romanones, the Spanish Premier, and a large suite, arrived here today to pay a state visit of two days.

Ten anarchists were arrested at Lyons today in connection with a plot to assassinate King Alfonso while in France.

I. W. W. MEN AT HOPEDALE FINED FOR PARADING

MILFORD, May 7.—Joseph M. Caldwell and Sixto Affinotti of the I. W. W. were each fined $20 by Judge Cook today. They were charged with conducting a parade on April 29. Frank Agresto and N. Avadusion for participating in the parade without license were fined $20. All appealed. The cases of Camille Valbrunit and Joseph Bodo were continued till tomorrow. Nineteen other cases were placed on file. Joseph J. Etter and Morris I. Swift were among the court spectators. A big crowd of strikers stood outside the building.

Bernard F. Supple, secretary of the State Board of Arbitration, arrived here today and consulted with Charles G. Wood, another member. Efforts are being made by them to have officials of the Draper Company confer with the whole board to bring about a settlement of the strike.

BOY STEALS RIDE AND GETS HURT

Thomas Kearns, fourteen of No. 23 Essex street, Charlestown, was severely injured today when he jumped from an auto truck on which he was stealing a ride on Tremont street, directly in front of a machine driven by Fred E. Lowe of No. 92 Highland street, Milton. He was knocked down and dragged several feet.

DRUGGIST FINED $50.

In the Somerville Police Court today William E. Fleet, a druggist at No. 143 Cross street, East Somerville, and a member of the Cambridge Board of Health, pleaded guilty to two charges of illegal sales of liquor and paid a fine of $50. His clerk was also fined a similar amount.

EX-WIFE BEGS MISS QUINN TO DROP PECK SUIT

Out of the strange tangle which fate has woven about the career of Professor Harry Thurston Peck, the famous educator and faith scholar, twice married, twice sued for alleged breach of promise by Miss Esther Quinn of Cambridge, and who is now critically ill, there comes an even stranger chapter in his life today in the news from New York that his divorced wife, who has made herself his nurse plans to write Miss Quinn, begging her to drop her second suit against him.

For nineteen days the first Mrs. Peck has been at the bedside of the former Columbia University professor, nursing him back from the brink of death. Referring today to the Cambridge woman's breach of promise suit, the divorced wife said:

Pins Faith in Miss Quinn.

"I can do little but hope that Miss Quinn will drop her case. I admire her and always have. I think that she will do as I suggest, for she is a good sort."

The first wife, Mrs. Cornelia Dawson Peck, declared that she hopes for no greater reward than to return Professor Peck, sound of body and mind, to the arms of his second wife, who supplanted her in his affections.

The first wife makes the nature of her sacrifice of her time all the more remarkable by her statement that she will provide for the professor until he recovers. She said that she is trying to secure a position at Cornell University for the second wife.

Today she told of going to the assistance of the man whom she divorced in 1906, and how she hopes to rebuild him and his faltering brain by Christian Science. She said:

I went to the hospital in Ithaca on hearing the doctors' verdict that Mr. Peck had but three more days to live. Six years ago I embraced Christian Science. I am not a teacher, nor a practitioner.

Meet After Seven Years.

I am a believer merely.

I had not seen him in seven years and when they took me to him I could not speak. His eyes were sunken and blinded. His mouth was agape. It seemed as though the shell of a man alone remained.

I took his hand in mine and prayed. A great strength came to me. I sent a telegram to Mervin Turner at Oxford, N. Y., saying, "Come at once. Treat for death. The rattle in his throat."

Mr. Turner came at once, treating through prayer as he rode. In the morning when he arrived the man whose death the doctors predicted in three days was sitting up. A light had come to his eyes. The hand that held mine was firmer. Mr. Turner knelt over the man.

"Will you trust in the Lord?" he asked.

"I will; I do," came the weak but steady response.

For nineteen days I remained by

Mr. Peck's bedside, determined to break the overpowering ego which dominated him. He was a pitiable wreck of a man whose brain, the doctors said, was softening and who would die.

He is here in Connecticut with me now nearly whole of body and slowly, like a child, relearning the things he lost through the unnatural philosophy which governs those who declared his case hopeless.

"Pure Gold in Peck."

Within him is a streak of pure gold. I ask nothing more than to be able to restore him to the world and to his wife.

After he has recovered she shall take him. He is legally hers. It is for me to do the good that God allows me. I have no other desire.

I never met his wife. I saw her once, two blocks away, while I was in India, but I have never met her nor spoken to her.

She may come here after a while and see him. But she must give me notice, so that I may go away. I am sorry for her.

I asked Dr. Frederick Crane, acting president of Cornell, to get her a position. She needs it, but not as help him, because I shall provide for him until he recovers.

DIRECTORS HIDE REASON OF BANK SUIT SECRECY

behalf of the public, wants to know what you have to conceal?

A.—I don't care what they ask. I am not going to talk about it.

Q.—But Receiver Bates and Master Harris are willing that the hearing shall be open to the public. Even your counsel, Mr. Morse, has no real objection and only holds out because of your objections and that of your fellow directors.

"Won't Talk About That."

A.—I do not want to discuss it and will not be drawn into a discussion of this affair.

Q.—In your opinion don't you think that the depositors in the National City Bank of Cambridge, of which you WERE a director, should be made acquainted with the details of this hearing?

A.—I don't want to talk about that.

Q.—If some of the depositors in the looted bank were to ask admittance to this hearing, would you demand that they be barred?

A.—I don't want to talk about it.

Judge Harris let it be known today that he would welcome a ruling from the United States Court that appointed him as to whether the hearings should be public or not, regardless of the desires of any contending parties. He said:

I have no objection to the admittance of the public. But no long as the men who are named as defendants in this action object to an open hearing, I feel that their wishes should be respected. It matters nothing to me who is present nor how many hear the testimony. I wish a ruling would be made. I am only a servant of the Court and stand ready to respect its wishes.

R. M. Morse, counsel for Dresser, said:

I have no objections personally to a public hearing. It is only the wishes of my clients that cause me to ask the master to make the hearing private. I have never objected to a public hearing.

But aside from that, a suit for a large sum of money has been started against those men. They have a good business standing. Their credit might be injured by the statements in the press. The lengthy detailed stories when the bank was looted excited the feeling of the people and in the minds of many, the directors are held to blame, despite the fact that no ruling of the court, up to date, has found that they are responsible.

"But Mr. Morse," was asked, "in justice to the DEPOSITORS of the bank, who lost their money, don't you think that they should have a chance to know just what proceedings are being carried on to recover some of this money?"

A.—"I don't see what good it would do to publish the details of this hearing."

Q.—But after it is all over and the master has made his finding, and should he hold that the directors of the bank were not to blame, wouldn't it be considered meritorious, by your clients, if the newspapers published the fact.

A.—I can't go into that. My clients object to an open hearing and I must respect their wishes.

Q.—But aside from their wishes in the matter, how can it be a fair ruling to deny a citizen of this Commonwealth the right to be admitted to a room in the courthouse, when it is the property of the Commonwealth, built and paid for out of the taxes donated by the people?

A.—It would be just as easy to hold the hearing in the master's private office.

Q.—Would that be done for the purpose of evading publicity? Would that be considered fair by you?

A.—Yes, indeed. It is as much a right to make this hearing private as it would be to consider the judge's private lobby private.

Q.—Don't you think that a different matter? No one would think of intruding into the judge's lobby. Yet it is fair to assume that the judge's lobby is part of the Commonwealth's property and a citizen would have a right in there, under certain conditions.

A.—I differ with you.

Attorneys generally agree with the AMERICAN that this particular hearing before a master should be open.

Clerk of the United States Circuit Court Charles K. Darling, who has served many times as master, recalls very few private hearings. Those were where some objectionable testimony was offered. Clerk Darling raises the question that nobody can be properly kept away from these hearings so long as they are conducted in a building controlled by the State.

Said Mr. Darling:

Darling for Publicity.

I believe with the trend of the times, with new court rules and new laws tending toward publicity, that all our hearings should be open to the public. In this case the unique spectacle is that it is being conducted by a Federal officer in a State court house. Objection, I believe, might properly be made by any citizen refused admission.

That might not lift the ban on secrecy if the Master persisted in keeping the doors closed. He could simply change his quarters, go down to the Federal Building, and nothing material would be gained by the objector.

Attorney John H. Cogswell of Lynn, a former State Representative and who fought for years for publicity in successive legislative bills, strongly scores the secret taking of testimony in the bank case. He declared today:

The Master in a case such as this has his own powers. He can open the doors of the hearing or close them as he sees fit.

I think Judge Harris is making a mistake against what the people are waking up to—and in a people's demand—when he closes the doors of this hearing to the public.

EXPRESS STRIKERS RESORT TO ARSON

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 7.—Three hundred special policemen were sworn in today because of the violence resulting from the express wagon drivers' strike. Many trucks driven by strike-breakers were overturned. Early today a party of thirty strike-breakers, brought here from New York, were attacked. Strikers poured gasoline over a delivery wagon and set fire to it. The parcel post is swamped.

Beautiful Ruth Morrill Is Found in Somerville

Ruth Morrill, called the most beautiful ward in Boston, who disappeared and was believed to have been spirited away by a stranger, was found today by Secretary J. Prentice Murphy of the Boston Children's Aid Society at Somerville and has again been taken in charge by the society.

Mr. Murphy declares that there is nothing to say concerning Miss Morrill's disappearance. The girl, he says, has been placed in competent hands. The authorities refuse to say where the girl was found or under what circumstances.

ADVERSE REPORT ON VACCINE BILLS

The legislative Committee on Public Health today reported adversely on bills to insure the purity of vaccine virus and to provide that school children may be exempted from vaccination on the written request of their parents or guardians. Senator Norwood and Representative Mulvey, Mahoney and McManus dissent on the first bill and Senators Norwood and McCarthy and Representative Mulvey dissent on the second measure.

GUTHRIE TO GET POST AT TOKIO

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The nomination of former Mayor George W. Guthrie of Pittsburgh, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, to be Ambassador to Japan, will be sent to the Senate today or tomorrow. He was one of the leaders of the Wilson forces in Pennsylvania and is an intimate friend of the President.

HOUSE ADVANCES BILL FOR MINIMUM WAGE FROM STATE

By an overwhelming voice vote, the House today upset a report of its Ways and Means Committee and passed a bill authorizing the Board of Labor and Industry to establish a minimum wage for work done for the commonwealth. Representative Sullivan of Holyoke led the fight for the bill.

Actress Tells Secret

A Well Known Actress Tells How She Darkened Her Gray Hair and Promoted Its Growth With a Simple Home-Made Mixture.

Miss Blanche Rose, a well known actress, when darkened her gray hair with a simple preparation which she mixed at home, in a recent interview at Chicago, Ill., made the following statement: "Any lady or gentleman can darken their gray hair and make it soft and glossy with this simple recipe, which they can mix at home. To a half pint of water add 1 oz. of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and ¼ oz. of glycerine. These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until it becomes the required shade. This will make a gray-haired person look 20 years younger. It is also fine to promote the growth of hair, relieves itching and scalp humors and is excellent for dandruff and falling hair."—Advertisement.

OLIVE Tablets OIL the Bowels

A Physician's Substitute for Dangerous Calomel.

When you feel that your liver and bowels need help take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Substitute for Calomel, Calomel is effective, but dangerous—causing sad after effects.

Olive Tablets are especially made to take the place of Calomel. Dr. Edwards for years has been Calomel's foe. He saw its dangers and its disadvantages in 17 years' practice treating patients for all kinds of liver and bowel complaints. In his efforts to do without Calomel he developed his now famous little olive-oil-colored tablets. Olive Tablets are mild but effective. Safe and sure. Pleasant to take, but unfailing in results.

Olive Tablets oil the bowels just enough to start Nature's own action, and they tone up the liver at the same time. They are made from a rare combination of vegetable compounds mixed with olive oil.

If you want to regain that feeling of joyous buoyancy and clear thought like Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They work like a vacation, 10 and 25 cents per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, O.

MASCOT is really a ten-cent tobacco—Quality and Quantity—and I sell it for 5 cents—How can I do it?

When I bucked into this tobacco-selling business I brought along with me a brand new idea.

The idea was to give you a ten-cent quality—and quantity—of smoking tobacco for 5 cents, and still keep from going broke myself.

There was only one way to do it. I knew the way. It was simple. I cut out the tin box cost—which is heavy—and put MASCOT in an inexpensive cloth pouch. The 10-centers come in tin boxes. You can't smoke tin, but you pay for tin.

My pouch is just as good as the tin box; in fact, it has many advantages over the tin box—and it saves me the money which makes it possible for me to give you double value for yours.

MASCOT

CRUSHED CUT TOBACCO

The Good NEW Smoke for Pipe and Cigarette

has built up a whirlwind success just on that simple idea.

And remember, MASCOT isn't "Just another nickel tobacco."

It stands shoulder-to-shoulder with any ten-cent tobacco you ever smoked. It is made from regulation ten-cent material.

Here's MASCOT:

Good old ripe mild Burley leaf—the best that Kentucky's golden sun and rich soil produces—carefully cleaned and cured until it is pure and mellow and sweet; then sliced and crushed until the tobacco runs uniformly throughout and does not "smoke in streaks."

Men, the proof of a tobacco is in the smoking of it. Take it from me, there isn't any better tobacco than MASCOT. Smoke it today.

PISCOPO'S BOOK TELLS JOY AND SORROWS OF LOVE FOR SLAIN GIRL

Today's instalment of the remarkable book in which David Piscopo records the tragic love story of himself and the little Italian girl whom he murdered shows that, in his opinion, he and his sweetheart, Tina de Francesco, were agreed as to the impossibility of a life apart from each other.

Written in warm, colorful Italian phrases, her letters and his musings sound the depths and reach the heights of which the fervent Latin nature is capable.

Thanks God for Sweetheart.

Dear David—I thank God for what He has done in letting me find one person in this world to love me truly and take good care of me. We will marry, and be happy together, and we will love and be true to each other until death, and even then I will take you with me and we will be happy in the other world. Now, be happy! Don't think that we will have a hard time to get my parents' consent to be married. Don't worry about that, because my mother will say yes, and she will make my father agree, too!

We will try in October and will get somebody to tell them, and they will consent. If they refuse, and want us to wait a little longer, we will do so; you, helped by my great love, will wait patiently a few months more. Then, if they still refuse, I will follow your true footsteps and let you make me yours forever, and we will be happy all together the rest of our lives. Yours,

TINA.

Piscopo, after copying the foregoing, resumed his story:

The father of Tina, after some months of our acquaintance, showed a great deal of opposition to our love for each other, and I had to make many sacrifices to be able to see her. Once, so as to be near her, I even painted de Francesco's fence for him.

On the other hand, Tina's mother gave me her friendship and full confidence, and to her I said that I loved Tina devotedly and would never give her up; that I would sacrifice anything for her sake, but that her father's opposition could not force me to sacrifice our love.

Tina, hearing me say these words, added, to her mother and me: 'David and I will be married; we will be together, living or dead. Do not fear, David; I will be yours, at any cost, as I want to be happy in my future life.'

Heart Full of Love.

On September 25, 1912, Tina wrote:

'This morning my first thought was of you, to write a loving letter to the one who is the dearest to me in all the world. Oh, David! I really don't know what I would do without you. I cannot even tell you how full is my heart of its great and devoted love for you. My heart and mind and soul are all yours. You are the star of my life, and nobody will take me from you while I live. I belong to no one else, and am yours, only yours, forever. Don't worry, my proud David, that I could change. I am yours for always.

The next day, after a quarrel with her father, Tina wrote:

Don't worry, dear David, about what my father said Wednesday night. I told him it was not true. He was very angry and cross with me, but I love you, and would and will face anything for you in this world. I love you truly, and cannot stay away from you much longer. I will face anything in this world for your happiness, for the great love that you have in your heart for me. No matter what my parents or friends say, I am yours until death. I write this from the depths of my heart.

Piscopo continues his story thus:

Tina and I saw each other often and our love grew stronger, although her sadness increased. Once, when we went out to Forest Hills, she, discouraged, said: 'My dear David; I am so unhappy.' Those words broke my heart, and I could not comfort her, as I realized how great were the sorrows that troubled her soul.

She and I were seated under a tree, and I clasped her in my arms and tried to arouse her courage afresh, but without much success.

However, gradually, she seemed to derive some consolation from my words, for her sweet but melancholy face began to show some of the pure joy that her heart found in her love for me and mine for her, and she said: 'Pardon me, my dear David, for hurting you by telling you these things. I know how they affect you, but my anguished heart makes me need some one to comfort and pity me, and you, dear person, are the only one I have in all the world.'

Then she embraced me, and, with her heart palpitating against mine, her arms holding deep into mine as I kissed away her sighs, she whispered, between half-closed lips, 'How much I love you, my angel consoler.'

When the harsh treatment at her home became very severe, she wrote me often, always telling me of her undying love, saying once: 'All that I am telling you starts from the bottom of my heart; if I should die, I pray that you will follow me to the grave. If you should leave me, on my honor, I would commit anything. I would kill you and myself. And if I should leave you, I wish you would do the same.

"If my parents should force me to part from you, or if, because of any aberration of mind, I should leave you, or even think of doing so, then please save me! do not abandon me; take me away from the living world, and let us be buried together.

Dear David—Will you do what I am asking of you? I ask it, not as your friend only, but also as your devoted slave. I want to be absolutely yours, living or dead. Swear that you will do as I ask. And I swore that I would.

Tries to Pacify Father.

All these paragraphs were in letters that she sent me daily, as can be verified by reading them. And there are many more that I have not put into this sorrowful account of our love, but I have them all, with the others. And all of them and imperishable love of a true woman who has found the one man breathe the same divine, undying to whom she can give herself, to whom she does give herself unreservedly. So, our love fed upon itself and our letters, and grew, in spite of persecution.

Once, on a Saturday morning, I met Mr. de Francesco on Hanover street, and, because of my great love for Tina, decided to try to put myself on friendly terms with him again, so I asked him why he no longer called at the pharmacy.

He answered that he could not pardon me for several things that I had done, one of which, as he had learned through persons who had seen us, being that I had taken his daughter to walk in South Boston. That was just an excuse.

Then he said that I had told the Mass-Onorati family of his dislike of me. That was not true, as the information had been given by Gaetanina herself; who found much comfort among the members of that family.

So I said to him: "Listen: I have said nothing against you, but, if you persist in believing otherwise, and although I am in the right, I offer you my apology. I ask your pardon.

"Are you ready to forgive? You know we are likely to die at any minute; then, if we can, why not do some good action."

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

PRETTY DANCER TO BE BRIDE OF AN IRISH PEER

Cables from London today bring the news that one of the prettiest actresses in England is to marry into the peerage. The lady in Miss May Etheridge, the idol of the theatrical set.

What interests Boston in the marriage is that she is to wed Lord Edward Fitzgerald, a brother of Maurice Fitzgerald, Duke of Leinster. The Duke is the best known of the Irish peerage. He has accepted an invitation from Boston friends to visit this city. He is also unmarried, and listen, all you heiresses—may take a bride in America.

Lord Edward is a lieutenant in the Irish Guards, and his devotion to a London Gaiety girl is in line with the pace at first set by the Duke, who a few years ago caused his then fiancée, Lady Cynthia Graham, Lady Ulrica Ebring and Lady Helen Vincent, a great deal of worry by his love affair with Teresa Valencia, the Spanish dancer. The Duke, however, gave up his sweetheart at his aunt's three-tongued demand.

May Etheridge, who married Lord Edward next month, has been in the dance halls a dozen years. She was on the stage at 15. "I only marry Lord Fitzy," she says bluntly, "and gratify the ambition of my life, which has always been to live in Ireland."

NOONE URGED TO SUCCEED COLT

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Representative B. F. Mahan, who today paid his initial visit to the White House, strongly recommended to President Wilson the appointment of Thomas S. Noone of Rockville, Ct., to fill the judgeship left vacant by the election of Judge Laborn Colt to the Senate. Representative Mahan told the President that the vacancy in the New England judgeship is retarding the work of the court in that section.

Mighty Chorus to Sing at Opening of Panama Fair

Plans are under way for the biggest and most complete music festival the world has ever known at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition which will open at San Francisco on Saturday, February 20, 1915.

The choral societies of the world will be represented upon a great scale, and in June or July of the exposition year a massed chorus of 20,000 voices, trained and pitched to the note, will join in a rendition of their national songs. Famous prima donnas will attend. In the great Court of Festival choristers from all parts of the world will assemble and give voice in united song to the meaning of the exposition which is being held to celebrate the opening of the Panama Canal.

One of the greatest attractions during the year will be the production of a symphonic work for which the New York Italian Philharmonic Society has offered a prize of $10,000. The competition will close on May 3, 1914.

KINSELLA HELD IN DEATH INQUIRY

Thomas F. Kinsella, aged twenty-one, of No. 461 First street, charged with the death of Michael McDonough, aged thirty-two, of No. 411 Second street, during a quarrel in a saloon, was held for a hearing next Tuesday by Judge Logan in the South Boston District Court today.

CASSIDY TELLS OF BILL TO CHECK GLUCOSE IN CANDY MANUFACTURING

BY HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Tomorrow in the Senate there will be considered a bill which is aimed at the most widespread adulteration of the day.

That is, the use of glucose in candy. The bill if passed will forbid the sale of candy containing glucose, unless the purchaser is told at the time of the sale, or unless that package containing the candy is labelled with the statement that the candy does contain glucose.

The bill, in other words, requires the candy manufacturer and the candy retailer to tell their customers the truth about the candy they sell.

I want to ask each one of you a question:

When you buy candy—the best candy sold in Boston—do you ever stop to think of what it is made?

If you do, ask yourselves this question, how do you answer?

I believe ninety-nine people in a hundred believe candy is made largely of sugar or maple syrup, or of molasses.

Scarcely one person in a hundred—outside the number of those engaged in the candy business—know that practically every bit of candy sold in Boston is made largely of glucose. Some candies contain as high as 90 per cent. glucose.

I believe that when people buy candy, and pay 80 cents or $1 a pound for it, they have a right to expect it to be made out of honest materials and out of first-class materials. Glucose is neither honest nor first-class. It is the worst fraud in the food world, and it is not a natural food product, but a chemical product.

Almost every food you can name either grows out of the ground, or grows on four feet or on two, or has grown in one of these two ways and been cooked afterward.

But glucose is produced by a series of chemical processes.

Ordinary corn is crushed, and the starch separated from the rest of the corn. This starch is mixed with a solution of hydrochloric acid. Later it is mixed with other materials which wipe out the dangerous hydrochloric acid. Then it is evaporated, and the result is glucose.

Glucose is said to have the same food value as sugar. This is probably true. Glucose is only slightly sweet—not nearly as sweet as sugar. Glucose will never crystallize as sugar does. Glucose is much more apt to ferment than sugar.

It is in this last fact that its especial danger lies. Candy is a dangerous food for children to eat under any circumstances. The ferment attacks their bones and tends to rot away the pliable little framework of the infant's body. Glucose has this tendency in an equal or greater degree than sugar, and additional glucose has a tendency to ferment in the child's stomach, causing more or less serious internal disorders.

1.—Used in candy, it prevents the candy from hardening and crystallizing. Glucose candy will appear fresh for much longer than sugar candy. If you buy sugar candy you can tell by the feel of it whether it is fresh or not. But soft, pliable, gummy glucose candy may be eight or ten weeks old, or even more.

2.—Glucose is two cents a pound sugar five—in round numbers. The result is the manufacturer who uses glucose has a great advantage over the one who uses sugar, in the price. But he doesn't give his customers the benefit of that cheaper production. The only large firm in the country which does not use glucose—to my knowledge—sells its candy just as cheap as the glucose men.

3.—Glucose is heavier than sugar—several ounces to the pint. Therefore a pound of glucose candy will be less in bulk than a pound of sugar candy. For instance, we might say that eighteen pieces of sugar candy make a pound, and fourteen pieces of glucose candy.

When you remember that the glucose candy costs the manufacturer less, and that it is more dangerous in your stomach, you see the danger it carries.

I do not mean to condemn glucose. Sold honestly, for what it is, it is all right. But like oleomargerine, it lends itself to deception and offers the manufacturer a temptation to cheat. The United States government requires all foods containing glucose to state that fact on the label, excepting candy. I believe that the same provision should apply to candy, and the bill before the Senate today would provide for just that.

THE BILL WILL FORCE CANDY MEN TO TELL YOU THE TRUTH ABOUT YOUR WARES. IT SHOULD PASS.

ROSTOMJEE TELLS OF SWAMI LECTURE

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

I was surprised to read the very garbled report of my lecture, published in a Boston paper on May 5, at Pilgrim Hall on "The Heathen Invasion of America."

I did not say one word about the so-called "Prince" Smile, who is now employed as a cook in one of the Boston hotels, as being one of the Swami; nor did I say anything concerning the Vedanta centre in this city. All I did say was to expose Maula worship, Tantra worship, and to dilate upon the injurious effect of Yoga philosophy upon American women. I also dealt with the differences between the conceptions of Swami and Vedanta philosophy of ancient India, and the young Swamis who have come to this country, and the so-called Vedantism preached here; for I verily believe that the Vedanta philosophy prescribed here is not the Vedanta philosophy contained in the Upanishads.

RIOT IMMINENT OVER SOCIALIST RED FLAG IN OHIO

EAST LIVERPOOL, O., May 7.—The fourth red flag was flaunting over Socialist headquarters here today. The first was burned last night. The second was burned today by angry citizens. A third, run up at once which was ordered down by Mayor R. J. Marshall to prevent further trouble and a fourth was then put up. Feeling is running high and riots are feared. The streets were full of enraged citizens at noon, half on each side of the issue. Open hostilities are in prospect.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

Facts and figures in endless array, which might in any way have a bearing upon the motor truck bill, were presented to the Legislative Committee on Roads and Bridges at its meeting yesterday. There was an abundance of arguments in opposition to the bill, which provides for an increased license fee for motor trucks. But one speaker was in favor of the measure, which has of late caused so much discussion.

It might be assumed from the various questions, that when the committee finally takes action on the matter, it will recommend that the license fee be five dollars for the first ton, and two dollars and a half for each additional ton.

It was clearly shown that but a small percentage of the trucks in use utilize the State highways, or those highways which have been constructed or are maintained by the Massachusetts State Highway Commission. The great bulk of the trucking, it seems, is done in city streets, and the truck men and owners of trucks naturally object to paying the increased fee.

They feel that if it is necessary to secure greater revenue through increased license fees, the increase should be secured from horse-drawn, as well as motor-driven trucks, especially in view of the fact that the horse-drawn vehicles use the State highways to a greater degree than do the motor trucks.

Fred W. Paine of the Hollander Motor Company, distributors of the Mots and Carrercar cars, has a brand new "Kelly" that is the sensation of Automobile Row. George Wetherice says that Paine is wearing it as the result of a bet.

The automobile Club of America has given out information relating to the conditions under which this year's—the fifth annual—Grand Prize run will be carried out. The race will be over the Savannah course, 11.44 miles long, so that thirty-five laps will give a total run of 400.4 miles. Outside of the Grand Prize trophy there will be four money prizes, amounting to $3,500, $2,000, $1,000 and $500 respectively.

Each car entered in the race must have a reverse gear driven by the motor, an exhaust outlet not directed toward the ground, and an overall length not exceeding 146 inches. The cars will be started according to their order of entries.

HOUGH'S NECK PLANNING TO HECKLE MAYOR

Mayor Stone of Quincy has got himself "in bad" with some of the residents of the Hough's Neck section by his reported statement that "the better class of Hough's Neck people did not want him to issue dance hall licenses there for the coming season."

Prominent citizens and business men plan to hold a mass meeting this week. Mayor Stone will be invited to attend and to explain whom he meant by the "better class."

The Mayor denied today he said he would not issue any licenses. He said:

"I have received a petition signed by more than 300 people asking that I shall not grant licenses to the three dance halls in Hough's Neck.

"I still have the matter under advisement. If I should be presented a petition by the better class of the residents asking licenses for the halls why, of course, I could not very well refuse."

Business men of Hough's Neck say that if the dance halls are not granted licenses, the Neck might as well close down as a Summer resort.

FUNDED DEBT OF CITY INCREASES

The gross funded debt of the city has increased $37,600 during the first four months of the present year and the net funded debt $2,718,747.37, in the same period, according to the monthly report issued by the city auditor today. The gross funded debt of the city on January 1 was $118,435,047.67. At present the figures are $118,471,547.67. The net funded debt at the beginning of the year was $75,314,380.84 and on May 1, $78,053,128.01.

SUTHERLAND UP FOR DEATH HEARING

James R. Sutherland of Whitman, accused of murdering his four months' old bride, Winnifred in their home on April 22, was given a hearing in the district court at Abington today. Mrs. Sutherland's body was frightfully burned with boiling water and covered with bruises. The police maintain Sutherland beat her to death. He says she fell down stairs with a kettle of boiling water.

ROXBURY TO HEAR FINAL REPORT ON "L" IMPROVEMENTS

A final report of the committee appointed some time ago to urge the Elevated officials to put more cars on Tremont street, from Lenox street to Roxbury Crossing, and on Shawmut avenue, will be made this evening at a mass meeting of the Roxbury Crossing Board of Trade in Dewey Hall, No. 1,165 Tremont street.

President Thomas Sproules will offer an interesting report on the number of improvements needed in the district. J. M. Levy, clerk of the organization, will read several communications having to do with the car service in the district.

MANY MISSING IN SWEEP OF FOREST FIRES IN VIRGINIA

NORFOLK, Va., May 7.—Forest fires which have been raging for many days on both sides of the Dismal Swamp broke from their confines today, despite frantic efforts of hundreds of volunteer fire fighters, and are now menacing many villages and cities in Virginia and North Carolina. Reports received here today state that many homes have been consumed and in sections where the fire suddenly made its appearance many are reported missing. Hundreds of families have been driven from their homes.

The smoke is so dense that the sun is practically obscured for a radius of fifty miles, and families living near the fire zone closed their doors and windows at night, fearing the smoke would choke them while they sleep.

The Chief Advantage of Crawford Boilers

over other boilers is that they heat the houses they are rated to heat;—you don't have to get the "next larger size." A fact worth noting.

These boilers give more heat per pound of coal than others and cost less in repairs. They are simplicity itself in operation, are guaranteed for zero weather efficiency and save fuel and labor.

There are no packed joints, sheet iron parts or brick linings in these boilers, and the "Heat Ribs" cast on the interiors are found in no others.

They are a gilt edge investment for those who want heat and plenty of it at the minimum of expense and care.

QUICKLY STOPS THE WORST BACKACHE

Makes Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders and Rheumatic Pains Vanish.

If you suffer with backaching kidney trouble, have disagreeable bladder and urinary disorders, or are tortured with rheumatism, stiff joints and its heart-wrenching pains, the new discovery, Croxone, will quickly and surely relieve all such troubles.

Croxone is the most wonderful remedy yet devised for ridding the system of uric acid and driving out all the poisonous impurities which cause such troubles. It is entirely different from all other remedies. It acts on the principle of cleaning out the poisons and removing the cause.

It soaks right in through the walls, membranes and linings, like water in a sponge, neutralizes, dissolves and makes the kidneys sift out and filter away all the uric acid and poisons from the blood, and leaves the kidneys and urinary organs clean, strong, healthy and well.

It matters not how long you have suffered, how old you are, or what you have used, the very principle of Croxone is such that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work the minute you take it and relieves you the first time you use it.

If you suffer with pains in your back, and sides, or have any signs of kidney, bladder trouble, or rheumatism, such as puffy swellings under the eyes or in the feet and ankles, if you are nervous, tired and run down, or bothered with urinary disorders, Croxone will quickly relieve you of your misery. An original package of Croxone costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if it fails in a single case.

HEATED REPLY BY SUFFRAGISTS TO MRS. GEORGE

A "sex appeal" set to martial music? Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch of New York wants Mrs. A. J. George, the Boston anti-suffragist, to pause and consider whether any woman or set of women would go about making a "sex appeal" in that way.

"So Mrs. George thinks the skirts we wore were too tight, and calls our parade a 'sex appeal,' does she? the head of the Woman's Political Union observed, when she read Mrs. George's criticism sent out from the Washington headquarters of the National Association Opposed to Woman's Suffrage. Mrs. Blatch continued:

Funny idea of sex appeal Mrs. George has! Twenty thousand women turn out on a hot day—thermometer registering 87 degrees—and march up Fifth avenue to the blaring music of thirty-five bands; eyes straight to the front; faces red from the heat, and our anti-suffragette friends call it a "sex appeal!"

I can't comprehend. If it had been mellow moonlight, now—if we had strolled along to the tinkling strain of the mandolin—that a "sex appeal" set to brass bands!

That certainly is a new one.

"Disgusting," was John Purroy Mitchel's comment on Mrs. George's remarks. "What she says is perfect nonsense."

Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, secretary of the National Woman's Suffrage Association, thought it a great pity a woman should talk of other women as Mrs. George did, but, like the murdered King of Denmark, she spoke more in sorrow than in anger.

"The antis must have great sex consciousness and self-consciousness to be thinking of such things," she observed. "I was furious when I read Mrs. George's remarks," cried Mrs. Portia Mills, one of the beauties of the cause.

Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman's Suffrage, said that she indorsed Mrs. George's remarks. She declared:

Some of the clothes worn were disgraceful. Of course, you see clothes like them on Broadway every day, but the suffragists—who are going to cure all evils when they vote—should eschew such immoralities. I do think the women's clothes are dreadful now. I don't see how men can be moral.

Some of those women who marched had absolutely no petticoats, and their white skirts clung—well it was dreadful! There was one woman who had a very prominent position in the parade, and really her dress and swagger bearing made me think of that atrocious Pauline Markham, who used to be on the stage.

But Miss Harriet May Mills, president of the New York State Woman's Suffrage Association, declared that people send their own thoughts into things. Miss Mills wore two petticoats Saturday.

CUT OUT ONE COUPON FOR CYCLOPEDIA

The AMERICAN'S big book bargain, in which Everybody's Cyclopedia is offered for a coupon and $1.98, is the greatest success on record. The five-volume sets regularly sell for $12, and they are well worth that amount. There'll never be another such chance after this big book bargain is withdrawn, and it will last now only so long as we can get the books from the publishers. It is the opportunity of a lifetime.

Let the boys know about it. Every known fact needed for daily use is contained in this five-volume set. It is the straight road to success. The children at school should have access to it at all times. It should be in every home, school and place of business.

Remember the days of distribution, next Friday and Saturday. A coupon is printed daily, any one of which is good for this $12 set upon payment of $1.98. Such a rare bargain was never heard of before.

Mail orders will be filled on the same terms, express charges to be paid by the receiver. The sets are too bulky to be sent by mail. All explained in the cyclopedia coupon printed elsewhere in this issue.

DESERT CLUB OF BACHELOR GIRLS TO CUPID

Score another one for Dan Supid, who has broken up the Bachelor Girls' Club of Roxbury and Dorchester. The final surrender will be made May 19, when the club dons its final dancing party in Intercolonial Hall, Dudley street.

First the president, Miss Anna Dolan, fell to Cupid's darts. The Bachelor Girls say her wearing a diamond ring. They learned she has to marry John Winkesen in the early fall.

Then fast came the desertions. Five other members announced they were to be married. Among them was Miss Margaret Dunlap. She is to wed William Estrafa of Roxbury. Next the remaining unattached members of the club are watching each other for signs of desertion.

The officers of the club are: Miss Dolan, president; Eva Dilman, vice-president; Charlotte Reagan, treasurer, and Susie McElroy, secretary. Among the members are Mary McElroy, Anna Guttermuth, Anna Chiess, Anna Lange, Kittie Lally, Margaret Dunlap, Margaret Carroll, Tillie Kreamer, Mary Conway, Molly Burke, Margaret Burke, Margaret Hurlbut, Lillian Roache and Margaret Spelgel.

DORSEY TO HEAD INFIRMARY BOARD

Boston's Board of Infirmary Trustees yesterday elected James A. Dorsey as the permanent chairman of the board, despite the fact that Mayor Fitzgerald had announced else slated for the position. On the resignation of former Chairman Edward M. Gallagher recently Mr. Dorsey was elected temporary chairman. The Mayor then named Thomas E. Masterson, a brother-in-law of Chairman Dorsey of the Civil Service Commission, to the infirmary board. Mr. Masterson was slated by the Mayor for the chairmanship of the board.

CAUGHT BETWEEN CARS.

Andrew Shea, thirty-six years old, of No. 159 West Sixth street, South Boston, was today caught between two cars at the Dover street yards of the New Haven road, receiving a fractured skull and a cut on the forehead. He was sent to the Massachusetts General Hospital.

MISS ANNA DOLAN, president of Dorchester Bachelor Girls' Club, whose marriage will disrupt the organization.

TUFTS MEN NAME 'SWORD' COMMITTEE

These freshmen of the Tufts College honorary sophomore society, Sword and Shield, have been elected to form the organization for the next year: Herbert E. Armstrong of Cambridge, Elliot W. Hayes of Winthrop, Henry A. Stafford of Orleans, Vt., Robert L. McLellan of Dorchester, John W. Fairbank of Cambridge, George H. Hays of Lynn, Albert W. Swenson of Medford, Lester N. Towne of Andover, Clarence R. Maclver of Graniteville, Vt., Herbert K. Anderson of Milford, N. H., John H. Bose of Wellington, Clayton C. Spencer of Barre, Vt., and A. Lindley Lamont of West Somerville.

If It's at Morse's, It's Correct
If It's Correct, It's at Morse's

We wouldn't think of telling you that just because this business of ours has been in existence for 61 years you ought to buy Morse-Made Clothes.

But—consider. We started in 1852, right in our present neighborhood. We've been in the building we now occupy since 1875. Adams Square isn't in the heart of the shopping district. And yet—we're doing a business today that is twenty times greater than our record for 1875. It's twice as much as it was in 1900. Coming right down to today, our sales for March and April, 1913, showed a comfortable increase over March and April, 1912. Why?

Why do people come, steadily, year after year, in increasing numbers, to Adams Square, passing by at least ten clothing stores in order to buy Morse-Made Clothes?

Must be reasons—good, solid reasons for it. They don't do it for fun—and we never even pretended to give them "something for nothing."

If you don't know the reasons, you're not one of our customers.

Doesn't your own good common sense suggest that it would pay you to find out what those reasons are?

We could give them to you in type, but it would be so much more convincing if you came and found them out for yourself, right from Morse-Made Clothes.

For instance:—We would like very much to show you our gray worsted suits in plain twills and fancy weaves at $20 and $25.

HUNDREDS PAY LAST TRIBUTE TO DR. TIMMINS

Prominent persons in the civil, religious and business life of the community attended the funeral services of Dr. P. J. Timmins of South Boston today, one of the best known Irishmen in the country, in the Gate of Heaven Church, where a solemn high mass of requiem was sung.

The Rev. Robert W. Johnson, pastor of the church and a lifelong friend of Dr. Timmins, was the celebrant. The Rev. Charles Firich was deacon and the Rev. Walter Lambert sub-deacon. The honorary bearers were Judge J. D. McLoughlin, Judge Joseph D. Fallon, Drs. J. T. Bottomley, Francis Bourice and William H. Devine, ex-Mayor Augustine J. Daly of Cambridge, Michael J. Jordan, president of the local branch of the United Irish League, and Dr. H. V. McLaughlin.

The bearers were Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, treasurer of the United Irish League; Thomas McLaughlin, Dr. William H. Riddick, Dr. Robert N. Daley, Dr. M. W. O'Keefe, Dr. Henry Towle, Daniel Hoyer and John Woods.

Seated within the sanctuary rail were Monsignors George J. Patterson, McQuaid of Boston and Madden of Springfield and more than forty priests.

Among the prominent persons seated in the body of the church were Acting Mayor Thomas J. Kenny, City Treasurer Charles H. Slattery, City Messenger Edward J. O'Leary, Senator William J. Hickey, former Congressman John A. Keliher, Civil Service Commissioner Thomas Boyle and Assistant Justice Edward L. Logan of the South Boston court. Burial was in Holyhood Cemetery, Brookline.

BRITISH PEACE PARTY TO BE FEASTED HERE

Eighteen peace delegates from Great Britain, Canada, Newfoundland, Australia and Belgium will be entertained by a Boston committee by a banquet at the Hotel Somerset, Saturday evening.

These delegates will arrive from New York, and proceed after the Boston visit to Washington. They come to the United States to formulate plans for the celebration of the centenary of the signing of the Treaty of Ghent, and the 100 years' peace among English speaking peoples.

The Boston committee has received an acceptance from Alfred Noyes, the English poet, to read his peace poem at the banquet. Among the guests from abroad will be Lord Weardale and Earl Stanhope. Honorable John D. Long will preside. The banquet is to be open to all.

A special service will be conducted at Trinity Church on Sunday morning, May 11, at which Rev. Alexander Mann, the rector, will deliver an appropriate sermon.

At the banquet Governor Foss will deliver an address of welcome, and the city will be represented by Acting Mayor Kenny.

It is possible that the delegates may be accompanied from New York by Henry Clews and Andrew Carnegie.

The banquet is in charge of the following: Edwin D. Mead, chairman; Addison L. Winship, secretary; Thomas B. Fitzpatrick, James P. Munroe, Mrs. Fannie Fern Andrews, Samuel B. Capen.

Information may be obtained of the secretary at 9 Beacon street.

WITHHOLD BOOKS FROM PROSECUTION

Judge Dodge, in the United States District Court, has decided that the books of Wheeler & Shaw, Inc., should remain in the custody of the court, the same to be accessible to counsel for the defense upon application at the court, but not to the government, except with consent of defense.

MARCONI, ANGERED, GIVES TESTIMONY

LONDON, May 7.—Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of wireless telegraphy, was a witness today before the Parliamentary committee, which has been investigating affairs of the British Marconi Company, and the connection of certain officers of the government with Marconi interests. Mr. Marconi was an angry witness and declared that he resented the present inquiry.

"I regret that the services rendered Great Britain by my company were not considered worthy of higher consideration than this," he said. He denied that he had ever speculated in the shares of his own company.

A Great Scientific Discovery

Of Exceptional Interest to All Readers and Sufferers of Stomach and Liver Disorders, Constipation, etc.

The success for a scientific remedy for the treatment of bowel disorders led the firm of Adams Brothers to conduct extensive experiments in order to arrive at a combination which would prove satisfactory, effective and gentle.

The result was the discovery of the Hunyadi Janos Pills, a perfect combination designed to act upon every organ in need of stimulation, through which the people could depend. A movement of the bowels is a process of Nature in which the tissues, blood, kidneys, intestines and Nervous System play an important part. A single stimulant does not exist which can act on all these structures. Such a thing is a whip which drives only one animal, and this is harmful.

Hunyadi Janos Pills are no experiment. You don't need to suffer from an ill to gain benefit—a dose or two pills at night are enough. No griping. Buy a box today. You'll see the reason why in the morning. Price 25 cents at any up-to-date Drug Store or by mail from A. Stabilow, New York.

LOCAL BOXERS FAVORITES IN TITLE TOURNEY

By JACK CONWAY.

The semi-finals and finals of the National Amateur Boxing championships will be held in Mechanics Building this evening, and some rugged contests are expected. The trial bouts were run off last night, and they were productive of some good, bad and mediocre boxing.

When the smoke of battle has blown over this evening, New England boys should be the holders of the majority of the titles. They proved last night that they know the boxing game better than their rivals from New York, Canada, New Orleans and other sections outside of New England.

The Canadian boxers, who came here raised as world beaters, failed to startle the "fans" by their work within the squared circle. Three of the title holders from the other side of the border received sound beatings.

The New Orleans boxers fared a little better than the Canadians, as only one of their champions met defeat. The rest of the boys showed up well.

Joe White was the only New England champion to be defeated. He is the local 115-pound title holder, but was vanquished in his trial bout by John J. Fitzpatrick of this city.

Walter Ridge of Brockton, Barney Snyder of Roxbury, Mike Sullivan of East Boston and Tommy Regan of East Boston all made good and went through their trial bouts with flying colors. These boys are sure to make things interesting for the other contestants this evening.

Patsy Greene, the dapper Cambridge 115-pounder, drew a bye. He is certain that he will be able to defeat Regan and the other "headliners" in the 115-pound class tonight. Over 3,000 people witnessed the bouts last night and an even greater crowd of battle lovers is expected to turn out in order to witness the festivities this evening.

CUSHING TO PLAY ANDOVER TODAY

ANDOVER, May 7.—The Andover nine will have the Cushing Academy team as its opponents on Brothers Field today. Coach O'Brien will use either Sweet, Grant or Sharpe in the box, while Captain Wiley will undoubtedly do the backstopping.

BOX HARD DRAW.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Young Mike Donovan of New York and George Ashe of Philadelphia battled ten rounds to a draw last night.

Right Off the Bat

By RILEY.

They're Stepping High Out West.

Of all the strange stories I ever have heard
Since they started the league pennant races,
The strangest one yet, by—I'll give you my word—
Is: "St. Louis holds fourth and fifth places."

IN Boston the Red Sox, in sixth position, are counted out of it already. While in New York, the Giants having just climbed out of the self-same hole, there's nothing in it but the Giants. That's funny, too.

YOUNG HUGGINS came out of the West and put a crimp in the leaders right off the bat, and it was Seaton, who trimmed 'em all in the East, who got it.

WHILE this was going on, Brooklyn sewed up the Cubs. Gave them only three hits. And bornswoggled Mr. Cheney, the Ed Walsh of Mr. Murphy's ball nine, too.

THESE stories look strange in the baseball columns. It was not like that in the olden days.

"HUB PERDUE was caught in a corner when he filled the bases in the first inning yesterday and Maranville let a run across with a bit of shortfield jurgling. But after that, Perdue knocked them down one after the other until Mann made a mispluy of Rose's single in the eighth and Byrne scored him with a safe hit.

MARANVILLE has an alibi. Rose ran in front of him as the ball came up on the bound.

THE "Rabbit" squared himself when, with Devlin and Brown lingering on the bases in the third, Maranville poked a sizzling double along the first base line and scored them. The "Rabbit" made three hits in three times at bat. In the first inning he singled, kept on to second on Wilson's bobble, stole third and all but scored when Byrne made a brilliant one-handed stop of Myers' infield drive just in time to nail Maranville at the counting station.

* * *

MYERS, Devlin and Clarke gave Lord Byron, the umpire, an unpleasant afternoon. All three of them were discreet enough to time their arguments so that they would end one second before they were discharged from the game.

B. C. NINE MEETS AMHERST AGGIES AT FENWAY PARK

The Boston College nine will clash with the Massachusetts Agricultural College team at Fenway Park tomorrow afternoon and a large number of rooters are expected to be on hand to cheer for their favorites.

Coach Scanlon is undecided whether to use Woods or Hallowan in the box, as both are pitching good ball. Whoever essays to twirl for the James Street team, the Aggies nine will find their hands full throughout the contest.

THORPE PRIZES TO GO TO THE WINNERS OF SECOND PLACES

GENEVA, Switzerland, May 7.—The prizes won at the Olympic games at Stockholm by James Thorpe, the Carlisle Indian athlete, will be awarded to the men who finished second in the events. The international committee of the Olympic games so decided on motion of the American delegates.

Thorpe was the winner of much coveted trophies. "The Viking Ship," offered by the Emperor of Russia in the winner of the Decathlon, and the bronze bust of the King of Sweden, offered by the King to the winner of the Pentathlon, both all-around competitions. These trophies will now go to H. Wiklander of Sweden and P. R. Bie of Norway, respectively.

YALE HURDLER OUT BY SICKNESS

NEW HAVEN, Ct., May 7.—There is gloom in the Yale camp today because W. P. Potter, Jr., regarded as a sure winner in the hurdle races in the meet with Harvard, has been compelled to quit because of a threatened attack of appendicitis.

WILL NOT REMATCH FEATHERWEIGHTS

LOS ANGELES, May 7.—Tom McCarey, fight promoter, has announced that he will not stage another bout between Johnny Kilbane of Cleveland, and Johnny Dundee of New York, featherweights, who battled to a draw at Vernon, Cal., a week ago.

LYNCH DISCHARGES UMPIRE OWENS

NEW YORK, May 7.—President Lynch of the National League has dismissed Umpire C. R. Owens for violation of the rules of deportment. The violation alleged consisted of entering a gambling resort.

CHINESE BOXER IS BEATEN IN BOUT

NEWBURYPORT, May 7.—Guy Lenney of South Boston knocked out Harry Ah Chung, the Chinese boxer, here in the third round at the Newburyport A. C.

MIKE GIBBONS WILL ARRIVE HERE TOMORROW

Mike Gibbons, the wonderful St. Paul boxer, who clashes with "Knockout" Brennan at the Atlas A. A. Friday evening, will arrive in Boston tomorrow. Gibbons is in fine condition as he has been training for over three weeks. He was scheduled to met Dave Kurtz in New York Monday night, but the bout was declared off at the eleventh hour.

Gibbons is a remarkable clever boxer. Packey McFarland is the only man in the ring who is as fast and shifty as Gibbons. Michael also carries around a sleek punch in either hand to Mr. Brennan had better be careful.

Brennan is an aggressive, willing fighter. He delights in mixing things at close quarters and if he lives up to his reputation should make things interesting for Gibbons.

A number of Boston "fans" will journey to Lawrence tomorrow night in order to see Jon Eagan battle with Steve Kennedy. From where I sit it looks as though it would be a whirlwind bout from start to finish.

Kennedy is a skilful performer. He possesses a corking good left jab and is as fast as lightning on his feet. Eagan was seen to be front and center during the past six months, and is not in the least bit bashful in declaring that he will present Kennedy with free transportation to Dreamland.

He's in again! This time it is "Kid" Curtis, who says he hails from Cambridge. Curtis is eager to meet Freddy Duffy or Terry Brooks. He failed to include Mark Spencer, who once told the writer that he would gladly box Curtis on any one of the seven days of the week. I should worry.

Ah Chung, the Chinese boxer, would be a world beater if he could hit hard, take a few pinches on the jaw without going to the mat, and if he knew a little bit about "inside" boxing. Outside of that the "yellow peril" is all right.

ENGLISH COLLEGES DECLINE CHALLENGE

OXFORD, Eng., May 7.—The athletic authorities of the universities of Oxford and Cambridge have declined the challenge from the universities of Harvard and Yale for a track and field meet at the Harvard Stadium in June this year. The reasons given are lack of necessary funds at this date and the fact that the examinations will then be in progress. They suggest the month of September as being more suitable.

MANAGERS TRY TO REINSTATE BOXERS

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 7.—Dan Morgan and Dan McKetrick, managers of pugilists, are here making an offer to have the ban on Jack Britton and Pal Moore, their protegees, lifted. Both fighters are forbidden to reappear in the ring here after making a disgraceful showing last month.

YANKEE BALL NINE MAY TOUR JAPAN

SEATTLE, Wash., May 7.—Meiji University of Tokio has cabled the University of Washington baseball nine an invitation to visit Japan and play a series of games with Meiji. The Japanese offered to pay the Americans' expenses if they leave here August 6 and return to Seattle by October 24. Consent of the faculty will be sought.

GREEN STAR HURT.

HANOVER, N. H., May 7.—"Jiggs" Donahue, Dartmouth's star second baseman, fell in practice this afternoon and dislocated his left shoulder.

LIQUOR SALES IN MAINE.

The recent law-relaxing in Maine evidently seems to have accomplished one good result, at least. People's attention has been called to the evils of indiscriminate buying and the importance of using only liquor of the highest quality, especially for home and medicinal purposes. The H. Tower Co. of Boston, the oldest wine merchants in America, report that since the Maine relaxing of their mail order sales of Tower & Lyon whiskey and their other wines quickly increased, because of their unsurpassed quality, to triple.

Those who want the choicest liquor obtainable will do well to write to mail from the Geo. W. Tower Co., 24 South Market St., Boston, or anyway write for their price list.

TECH ATHLETES TRAINING HARD FOR BIG MEET

By THOMAS J. HALPIN,
(Quarter-Mile Champion of United States and Canada).

The Tech track team held a severe workout yesterday in preparation for its dual meet with the B. A. A. on Friday. The Unicorn team was also out in full force.

Wilson, Tech's star sprinter, is not traveling in his best owing to a slight sprain. He will, however, be a strong contender for the first place in the 100 and 220-yard events.

The Back Bay club will be handicapped in these matches, as up to the present time there has not been any star speed men out. Burns, O'Hara, Snow and Russell have not made any effort towards getting in shape. A good broadjumper was discovered yesterday in the person of Frank Hiney, who will also be a strong representative in the dashes.

May Do Twenty-Three Feet.

Hiney cleared well over twenty feet in his first trial and gives all indications of doing close to twenty-three feet. He will be a valuable addition to the track team in this event, as Gutterson has retired from active competition and Farrell, the B. A. A. veteran, has also hung up his shoes for good.

The Tech team is depending on Guething, Ryland and Wilson to win the greatest number of first places. The Unicorn club has not been able to interest any of its field athletes, so that it is quite probable that the Tech team will win all three places in the shotput, hammer throw the discus, while the low hurdles are also on the list of events that Tech has a strong chance of winning.

The half-mile, mile, two-mile, 220-yard dash and the high jump appear to be the list of first places that the B. A. A. will win, for in these events there is a wealth of material that has been showing up well.

Nye in Two-Mile Run.

Nye, the Tech distance runner, will also be a competitor in the two-mile event and will make the athletes run their best, as he is capable of covering the distance under ten minutes.

Guething is not worrying about the outcome of the quarter-mile event, as he claims that he is able to shave fifty seconds if he has to. Osgood, the B. A. A. athlete, claims that he will easily defeat Guething in this race.

DE MAR TO START IN GOTHAM RACE

The North Dorchester Athletic Association will be represented by a team of five runners in the Modified Marathon of the Evening Mail to be contested in New York, Saturday afternoon. The aggregation includes Fenton J. Madden, Tom Lilley, Anastus K. Sturgis, Clifton Horne and Clarence De Mar. The acquisition of the latter will cause some surprise, for several months ago he announced that he had retired.

YALE STAR NOW IN GOOD STANDING

NEW HAVEN, May 7.—"Pete" Falsey, the star outfielder of last year's freshman nine at Yale, who has been ineligible for the varsity this Spring because of deficiency in studies, has passed his examinations and is now eligible to play.

IN THE BLEACHERS

"Some men waste their time tryin' tew make garden, while others prefer tew spend their time tryin' tew make hair grow on a bald head. The result is usually the same in each case exceptin' that the feller who makes garden usually sees somethin' grow, even if it ain't nothin' but weeds." — Elder Berry.

GOLF NOTES

Tomorrow afternoon the Harvard Golf team will play the Country Club team at the latter's links in Clyde Park. Harvard has a very interesting schedule arranged but they have their work cut out for them if they are going to beat the Brookline representatives on their native heath.

There were a number of visitors at Woodland yesterday. John Shepard, Jr., of Belmont Springs skipped away from his Winter street office early enough to play a game with R. M. Purves. Purves was not too courteous to his guest, scoring 16 and registering a victory over the former president and captain of the Rhode Island Golf Association.

* * *

T. L. McNamara, the Boston "pro," and H. H. Cook of Albemarle were other visitors at Woodland. They played with Charlie Burgess, the local "pro," and another amateur. The visitors were very much pleased with the appearance of the new holes that will be opened shortly to give this course a place among those raised as the best in Massachusetts.

In addition to playing a good game of golf, Shelley E. Thayer is noted as a pitch player.

Heinrich Schmidt may not be here to defend his title as the amateur golf champion of Massachusetts if his present plans materialize. It is rumored that he is going across the water and will write and play golf at the important tournaments.

* * *

"Colored up like a meerschaum pipe, aren't you?" was the way one of Tom Ashley's friends greeted him when he arrived back home after a golfing trip to Baltimore. Tom won a prize in the second flight while his host, B. Warren Corkran, took chief honors. When Corkran was at Harvard he won the Country Club cup in one of the most sensational and brilliant rounds ever played over the course before it was reconstructed.

McCARTY ON MAY 24.

CALGARY, Alberta, May 7.—Luther McCarty, "white heavyweight champion," has telegraphed that he will meet Arthur Pelky, Canadian "white hope," in a ten-round bout here on May 24.

DRILL HARVARD CREW FOR BOAT RACE SATURDAY

Coaches Wray and Stevenson of Harvard have joined in giving the Harvard crew stiff workouts on the Charles in preparation for the race with Princeton and Penn, which takes place Saturday. The Cornell stroke, which is being taught, was practiced yesterday, with spells in which the eight was ordered to use the long, swinging four-mile stroke which the Harvard coaches have developed for the Yale race during the past seven years.

Harvard men are confident that they have a crew this year which is capable of giving even Cornell a great race, and which should walk away from Princeton, in spite of the reported strength of the Tiger eight.

Cornell Men to See Race.

It is probable that there will be two or three Cornell coaches in Cambridge Saturday watching the Harvard crew, as there will be a large number of the Cornell supporters in town for the track meet which will be held on the same day as the boat race.

The operations on the Stadium bridge made it difficult for the crews to cover the course during the early part of yesterday afternoon. As a result the workouts were held upstream, where starts and spurts were practiced. The coaches are figuring on maintaining a stroke of thirty-eight during the mile and seven-eighths that the boats will be under pressure, and this should keep a winning speed.

The men all seem to have sufficient endurance to stand the strain for the short race.

Abeles Goes Over Course.

Captain Abeles has been over the course in the shell three times this week, and has the course well mapped out.

The finish will be opposite the Park Commission landing near the West Boston bridge. The start will be made from buoys under the Cottage Farm bridge. The coaching launches of the Harvard and Technology clubs will probably be the only ones to follow the crews.

ALL THE SCORES OF ALL BASEBALL GAMES IN NEXT SUNDAY'S BOSTON AMERICAN

All of the results of the baseball games played by school teams, amateurs and semi-professionals in Greater Boston last Saturday were published in the sporting section of the Boston Sunday AMERICAN. The AMERICAN will repeat next Sunday.

Managers or captains of baseball teams which will play next Saturday are invited to mail, telephone or send the scores to the Boston Sunday AMERICAN, which will be glad to publish them.

If you mail your score, be sure that it will be delivered in time. It is preferable to telephone—Sporting Department, Sunday AMERICAN, Main 5180. Or, better still, to send by message or deliver personally to reporters for the Sunday AMERICAN, who will take the scores in the main office, first floor, at Nos. 80-82 Summer street, and prepare them for publication.

As the first edition of the Sunday AMERICAN goes to press at 10:30 p. m., it is desirable that the scores be delivered as early as possible in order to insure publication.

The AMERICAN thanks the baseball managers and captains for their co-operation in this feature of last Sunday's paper, which contained more sporting items than any other newspaper in New England, and asks that they continue this co-operation next Saturday.

Perdue Sinks Pirates' Craft

Kirke's Hit Wins Battle, 3--2

By L. R. MURDOCH.

After one day's business with the Pirates at South End Park, "Hub" Perdue did not think so much of them today as he had been led to opine from the newspaper stories which have been floated about the putative pennant pilferers from Pittsburg. Perdue beat them, 3 to 2 and, although the job required the able assistance of eight capable young men working their best for all of ten innings and two hours, the visitors of no time created great enough disturbance to call for extra editions of the newspapers.

They played baseball in listless fashion. Even Honus Wagner acted as if he were sleepy. Honus lost two simple chances which were scored as errors. They ought to show some symptoms of this state this afternoon, when they will have another session of baseball at South End Park. It is said that Fred Clarke has a bright young collection of pitchers in his stable when they catch up to the procession. They showed up the world's champions at Hot Springs, and the Red Sox have never since regained their batting eyes.

Although they did win the Pilgrims did not make much of a mess of Claude Hendrix yesterday. He certainly had enough control. He issued no passes. The three runs scored by Boston were all earned, though, and Perdue outpitched him.

The end of the affair was the most startling feature of it all—as all climaxes should be. The score was two all in the tenth when Sweeney singled and Titus pushed him along to second with a sacrifice. Then Jay Kirke, batting as a pinch hitter for Mann, hoisted a high fly to left field. "Scoops" Carey—all Careys are "Scoops" in baseball—ran over there and got the ball in his mitt just as his forward foot touched the foul line and simultaneously the bleacher fence. The collision with the latter caused Mr. Carey to drop the ball and Sweeney scored as Mr. Carey, rubbing his eyes, looked vainly around for the ball, which had been absorbed in the pocket of a souvenir hunter in the stand.

The Pirates believed that this was a foul hit and they stood in their places on the field for several minutes. The crowd did not agree with them and swarmed across the park; the Pilgrims sided with the crowd and, donning their cubist mackinaws, started home and, what is more important, Mr. Rigler and Mr. Byron, whose opinion in the matter was conclusive, agreed with both. So the visitors reluctantly, but nevertheless decidedly, yielded to the inevitable and returned to their hotel instead of camping on the damp, cold lawn all night.

MANY GOLFERS IN BRAE-BURN MATCH PLAY

With a field that resembles a State championship or an open amateur meeting, the Brae Burn Country Club has opened its match play season. The first competition of any importance is the play for the President's cup. Nearly 100 golfers tried to qualify for this event Saturday last, and seven flights of eight were drawn immediately for handicap match play.

Scratch and low handicap players are mixed in with players with an allowance of eighteen strokes, and this means that there will be some very interesting golf before the tourney is over early in June.

The players were arranged in the following flights according to their net scores on Saturday:

The Drawings.

FIRST FLIGHT FOR PRESIDENT'S CUP.
F. J. Mitchell, Jr., (12) vs. H. S. Spaulding (14).
C. S. Weeks (5) vs. C. N. Smith (12).

The Manicure Lady

By WILLIAM F. KIRK

She Goes with Brother Wilfred to a Literary Meeting and Hears Him Recite a "Pome"

"I WAS to a great event last night, George," said the Manicure Lady.

"I must tell you all about it."

"Make it short, then," snapped the Head Barber, who was reading the sporting page and wondering how the Red Sox had got off to such a poor start.

"This ain't no story that can be made short," said the Manicure Lady, "so if you don't throw away that newspaper and listen respectful like, you don't hear my silvery voice none whatsoever, as them poets used to say. That's right, George, throw the paper away. You can always read about how Pittsburgh is cleaning the ball and about Joe Wood's speed, but you don't get a chance very often to hear about a manicure girl breaking in with the real highbrows, the kind that can write philosophy and them epigrams. That was the kind of a crowd that your little chum here was herding with last eve, George, and it was an event in my sweet young life. I felt just like a bale of the bull with a full programme.

"I didn't dream of no such honor as going to that party, George. It was all on account of Wilfred, and the way it turned out he was more to blame than he was to be praised. He got a letter the other day from a literary club, composed of some of Boston's best clubbers of literature. It seems that the poor boy, in a moment of desperation, sent a blank verse poem to a magazine and the magazine printed it. Wilfred wrote it, so it didn't mean nothing, he told me at the time, though, goodness knows, George none of his poems was ever mean enough to mean much. As soon as the poem came out in the magazine he got a letter to attend the weekly meeting of this literary club. The invitation asked him to come and bring a friend, and as I was about the only friend that poor brother has got since he began being a poet, I went with him.

"It was a swell looking studio, this place where the literary ladies and gents had their meeting, and I was glad that I dolled up for the occasion in one of Mayme's precise evening dresses. That is, I call it precise, anyhow, because goodness knows it don't leave a lot to the imagination. Wilfred has his other suit pressed, too, because right after he got the invitation he went and read the chapter in the 'Life of Robbie Burns' that tells how the poet was made a slot in Edinburgh, and how he always appeared so much at home. Wilfred figured that if Bobby Burns could do as well in Edinburgh he ought to make the same kind of a hit in this new literary circle.

"Well, as soon as we get to the party everybody leaves me flat and starts making a fuss over Wilfred. One of the ladies that had deep eyes and was all to the shoulder blades starts in making a fuss over Wilfred. She said America had produced a real poet, and the way she shook Wilfred's hand must have delighted poor brother something grand, after the kind of cool treatment he has been getting at home since he lost his last job. Then all of them begged Wilfred to recite the poem that was in the magazine, and he recited it. This is how it goes, George, if you'll listen:

"'Where Carthage glowered once and menaced Rome,
Where Antony left Ambrosia's lowering lee,
To follow Love's sublime Egyptian queen,
There would I be. My spirit lurks there now
Writhing to thwart its prison of earthly clay
And live through aeons with the sheeted ones
That builded fame for Rome and Africa.
Spirit of mine, stay thou with those dear shades
And revel in their glorious company,
Counting this clay as nothing, knowing well
That at the end all things are Nothingness.'

"He must have been kind of balmy in the block when he wrote that," declared the Head Barber. "There ain't no sense to none of it."

"That's what I thought," agreed the Manicure Lady. "I even told them when they asked me if I wasn't proud of my brother that I had always been kind of proud of him when he came home with his weekly envelope, and I told them I thought his magazine poem was kind of dippy sounding. All they said was: 'You poor girl, you do not understand.' I may be simple and girlish, George, but thank goodness I ain't got to the stage where I ought to be walking beside a veiled park with a fat nurse on each side of me. No more literary clubs for mine!"

THE GUV'NOR'S CHECK

RECENTLY a certain gentleman's failing sight at last compelled him to resort to the aid of spectacles. He bought a pair of pince-nez. These, after repeated trials before the looking-glass, failed to accommodate themselves with becoming grace to his facial peculiarities.

They were neither comfortable nor decorative, so he sent them back to the optician for alteration. This occurred twice, and still they did not please the old man.

On the third attempt the tradesman lost patience, and when he again delivered the spectacles his boy gave in this message:

"The guv'nor says, if they don't fit this time, the goat had better send his face round."

Superfluous Hair Truths

Stop Experimenting

There are but few depilatories sold. You think there are hundreds because you have used the same identical preparations under several different names. This is easily explained. Women stop using

So-Called Hair Removers

when they learn that they are harmful. Therefore, they can not be sold under the same name for any length of time. Then the identical, worthless, harmful concoctions are given new names and advertised again as totally different preparations to who innocently buy them over and over again under different names, and this will continue as long as women are so unwise as to experiment with unknown, so-called hair removers.

DeMiracle

Has Stood the Test of Time

DeMiracle has been sold as DeMiracle for over eleven years, and its name has never been changed. It is acknowledged the world over by eminent authorities as the one safe, perfected hair remover, therefore it is the only depilatory you can use without experimenting.

Leaves No Tell-Tale Smell

If you use DeMiracle it will be impossible for any curious person to know that you have used a hair remover because DeMiracle evaporates immediately after accomplishing its work, therefore leaves no odor whatever. On the other hand, if you use any depilatory with a distinctive odor, an offensive, tell-tale smell will cling to your skin for hours.

Avoid Permanent Disfigurement

by refusing substitutes. If your dealer will not supply you send $1.00 direct. Free information how to determine which depilatories are harmful and worthless sent in plain, sealed envelope.

Married Life the Third Year

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

Helen Is Indignant and Warren Furious at Aunt Emma's Ungrateful Letter.

WORRIED and depressed, Helen went in to straighten up Alice's room the morning after her departure.

Everything was in disorder from the hurried packing. Tissue paper, strings and empty boxes lay scattered about, and where the trunk had set was a dusty square.

The whole unpleasant scene of the night before kept beating in Helen's mind. And not only had Alice cut short her visit and left in a high dudgeon—the memory of that was distressing enough—but even more distressing was the fear of what Aunt Emma and Warren's other relatives might say.

That Alice would not hesitate to disparage both her and Warren Helen knew, and about her visit she would probably tell many things that were not true.

Helen was always keenly sensitive about what people "might say," and now she could think of nothing but the unpleasant surmises and comments that Warren's relatives would make.

With brooding anxiety she put back her clothes in the bureau drawers and the closet that she had emptied for Alice's convenience. Besides the burnt bureau scarf she now discovered other evidences of Alice's carelessness.

A black smudge on the rug showed where she had glossed her shoes, the wall paper was sprinkled with ink where she had shaken a fountain pen, and on the back of one of the chairs a wet towel had been flung, leaving the varnish dulled and whitened.

While Helen was still putting the room to rights Warren called up from the office.

"I won't have time to write that letter to Aunt Emma," he announced, "so you'll have to write it. And you'd better get it off right away."

Helen at a Loss

"But, dear, what shall I say?" faltered Helen.

"Just say that Alice took it into her head to go and that we couldn't keep her."

"But couldn't you write tonight or tomorrow?" persisted Helen. "You could do it so much better than I."

"Yes, and then Alice would have time to tell her mother a lot of lies. Now you get that off right away! I want it to go out tonight."

When Helen turned from the phone it was with greatest reluctance that she went over to the desk to write this letter. For her letter writing was always most difficult, and from a letter like this her mind recoiled.

How should she begin it? What could she say? She did not want to hurt Aunt Emma, and yet it was only fair to them that she should tell just how headstrong and unruly Alice had been.

After much chewing of her pen and many discarded beginnings the letter was finally finished.

Boston, April 24, 1913.

Dear Aunt Emma:

I regret very much that Alice should have ended her visit in this way. We did everything we could to persuade her not to start off last night, but she was so headstrong that nothing we could say had any effect. She declared if we did not take her to the station she would go alone—so what could we do?

The only excuse for all this was that we tried to do what you asked—to keep her from seeing that Mr. Hampton. He came on and called here at 7 to take Alice out. But Warren refused to let him see her.

This so incensed Alice that she at once began to pack her trunk, declaring that she would not stay with us another night. I pleaded and Warren scolded, but all to no effect to neither of us. She said she was engaged to this man and that she was old enough to do as she pleased. I think that you are quite right in feeling that a man of his age, and a divorced man, is most unsuited for Alice. I hope you will be able to break it all off—but Alice is very headstrong.

I am sending by parcel post some things she left in her haste. I hope you have gotten the house in shape again, that you are over the worse effects of the flood, and that Alice's unexpected return will not make things harder.

We both regret more than I can say that her visit should have such an unpleasant ending, but I trust you will understand that we did all we could to prevent it. Sincerely your niece,

HELEN.

Helen was so far from satisfied with this letter that she wanted to call up Warren and read it to him over the 'phone, but she knew he would be too hurried and impatient to listen. So, reluctantly she took it out to the mail chute.

The next two days were for Helen most unhappy ones. She was constantly being forced to explain Alice's sudden departure. It was very embarrassing, particularly when Carrie Warren's sister, called up to invite Alice to a luncheon.

The Answer

But even more distressing was her haunting dread of what Aunt Emma would think and of just what Alice would tell her. It was Helen's nature to worry—and over this she worried herself almost ill.

When the next morning at breakfast she found by her plate a thick letter in Aunt Emma's handwriting, anxiously she tore it open.

Dayton, Ohio, April 27, 1913.

My Dear Helen:

I believe Warren paid for Alice's ticket the night she left, and I hasten to return the amount in this. If there is anything else that she owes you will kindly let us know, as neither George nor I wish to be further indebted to you. The check Warren sent George the week after the flood we will return the first of the month. I regret that we cannot do so sooner.

It was, of course, a mistake that Alice ever visited you. I would never have supposed it had I dreamed that it would end as it has. As upset and distracted as we were after the flood, I see now that it would have been much better for her to have stayed here.

You seem to have failed wholly to understand her. She has an exceptionally nervous, sensitive nature. She has always been delicate, and we have always tried to keep from her any needless irritation or excitement.

That you should have let her start home at midnight, in an excited, unstrung state, showed, to say the least, a lack of consideration on your part. I would not have let the most casual visitor leave my house under such conditions, much less a girl like Alice.

I cannot understand what you and Warren were thinking of to allow it.

When Alice arrived she was in almost a state of collapse. It is needless for me to try to conceal the fact that I am very indignant about it all, and I think George shares my indignation, although he may not admit it so frankly.

I am exceedingly sorry that we ever troubled you, and I assure you we will not trouble you again.

AUNT EMMA.

"What's struck you?" demanded Warren, as Helen gasped her dismay and indignation.

"It's from Aunt Emma—the most AWFUL letter!" handing it across the table.

No More Relatives

Warren read the letter and threw it down with a grin.

"W-ll, that lets us out! I guess we're about through trying to help any relatives. Understand? Your relatives or mine—we'll steer clear of the whole bunch."

"But, dear, MY people have never troubled us!"

"Well, I've noticed they're not above making it a convenience to stop here when they come to Boston."

"Why, Warren, you know very well that Uncle Henry is the only one of my family that's EVER stopped here. And he was going to a hotel if you hadn't insisted. I don't see how you CAN infer that my relatives have made a convenience of us!"

"Well, I said we're through with ALL relatives, didn't I? And that's exactly what I mean. Heretofore if people want to come to Boston for two days or for one day—they'll put up at a hotel. From now on they're going to find it pretty blamed hard to work us! I guess one lesson along this line will be just about enough!"

Advice to the Lovelorn

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

NOT NECESSARILY

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been corresponding with a woman of about twenty-six, during the last year. I am nineteen and a high school boy, and feel very much attracted to her. She writes to me about once a month, and always asks me to tell her what I am doing. Don't you think it is all right for her to write to me, and do you think she is very much interested in me?

R. S.

SHE may be interested in you as she would be in the welfare of a young brother, and you must not suppose it is anything else. For this reason: You are only nineteen, a schoolboy, and should be interested in your studies to the exclusion of all thoughts of love.

GIVE HIM UP

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am going with a young man twenty-nine years of age. I am twenty-two and have been going with him ever since I met him, two years ago. During the period of time he has claimed he loved me with all his "heart and soul." This friend is fond of drink, otherwise he is nearly perfect. Some time ago he told me he thought if we were married we would never be happy, and he didn't think he was good enough for me. I agreed that we stop going together, but he didn't stop. He continued to call me up and continues to call.

DISTRESSED.

HIS fondness for drink makes him most undesirable, though otherwise he may be nearly perfect.

He admits his unfitness for you. Agree with him, and give him up.

GO OUT MORE.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady eighteen years of age but have never had a sweetheart yet, although am considered good looking and educated.

I am a girl who likes to stay at home and not go out much.

Please advise me if my lover will come even if I stay at home.

ANXIOUS.

YOU must go out occasionally. How would you meet him otherwise?

It is seldom that more than an ounce is needed to completely clear the skin and gain a beautiful, clear complexion.

Be sure to ask for the double strength othine, as this is sold under guarantee of money back if it fails to remove freckles.

PETERS URGED FOR MAYORALTY BY G. G. A. MEN

Politicians heard with considerable interest today that Congressman Andrew P. Peters had been approached by representative members of the Good Government Association and urged to become a candidate for Mayor.

Some time ago Senator Timilty of Ward 18 launched a boom for the Eleventh District Congressman, but when he found that few of the Democratic leaders took kindly to the suggestion of the Peters candidacy he ceased to take much interest in it.

Observers say that Congressman Peters might secure the support of the Ward 18 Democratic organization, but that it is extremely doubtful if any of the other leaders of the city Democracy would rally to his support.

Senator Timilty aspires to succeed Peters at Washington after another year in the State Senate.

PHOTOGRAPHY REVOLUTIONIZED

BY NEW INVENTION

Films, Plates and Dark Room Made Unnecessary

New Camera Takes Finished Pictures in Two Minutes

Mr. Edmond F. Stratton, of New York City, has invented a camera that takes and completes pictures ready to see in two minutes. It does away with the expense of buying films or plates and the trouble, expense and delay of having them developed and pictures printed by a photographer. The camera has a fixed focus lens and there is no delicate focusing mechanism to get out of order or for you to learn to operate.

This camera, which is called the Gordon Camera, is being manufactured by the Gordon Camera Company, 1875 Stuyvesant Building, New York, N. Y. As they are desirous of making it known in every locality, they are making a special offer to our readers. For a limited time they will sell models A, B and C at half price. The regular price of Model A, which takes pictures 2¼x3½ inches, is $5, but it will cost our readers only $2.50. Model B (regular price, $10), which takes pictures 3¼x5½ inches, will cost only $5, while Model C (regular price, $15), which takes big pictures, will cost only $7.50. Whichever one you order, enclose 90 cents additional to cover parcel post, sensitized cards and developing powders.

The sensitized cards are wrapped for daylight loading, and the powders make the developing solution to be put into the developing tank, which is inside the camera. Model A is 5x8½x9 inches in size, and weighs 2 pounds 4 ounces. Model B—6x9x10 inches, weight 2 pounds 14 ounces. Model C—6x9x10 inches, weight 3 pounds 2 ounces.

The cost of taking pictures with the Gordon camera is almost nothing in comparison to all other cameras. Extra sensitized cards (2¼x3½) can be bought for 1½ cents each (3¼x5½ for 3 cents), and 10 cents' worth of developer will develop over 40 pictures. The Gordon Company sells flash light lamps for 80 cents, which will enable you to take pictures at night in your own parlor, or out of doors.

The operation of this new camera is so simple that any little boy or girl can easily take pictures with it after reading the directions sent with each one. When ordering a camera under this special offer be sure to mention that you are a reader of The Boston American.

TODAYS STOCK MARKET

The stock market had no uncertain tone at the start, but after a recessional movement, developed strength. In New York a buying movement began because of the report than an underwriting syndicate had been formed to take care of Southern Pacific stock which Union Pacific must dispose of.

At the end of the first hour Southern Pacific had recovered the loss sustained while the centre of a bear drive and was showing a fractional gain. Union Pacific, which had not been nagged so far, was showing ¼ above last night's closing. Reading was speculatively active, as usual, and up more than a point, while Steel, American Can, Erie and Amalgamated were fractionally higher.

Sentiment during the first half of the forenoon, as reflected by talk, was decidedly bearish as ever. But traders displayed a cautious indicating unwillingness on their part as to what trend was to be developed next.

In Boston the market was dull and price changes lacked significance. Boston & Maine ran. New Haven declined, as did Boston Elevated. Copper shares were irregular.

Early Prices Irregular in N. Y.

Price irregularity prevailed in early New York trading, the market having a feverish tone and there being a disposition to sell. American stocks were mixed in London, but held above parity.

Bears concentrated pressure upon Southern Pacific at the opening in New York, believing that it could offer the least resistance and would unsettle the list by a sharp decline, and in effect it was more than a point. Union Pacific was heavy, yielding ⅝ to 144¾, among the other declines were Amalgamated ⅜, B. & O. ⅝, C. & O. ⅝, Great Northern preferred ⅝, Great Western ⅜, New Haven ⅝, Steel common ⅛, Canadian Pacific advanced ¼ and fractional gains were also noted by American Smelting, Northern Pacific and St. Paul. New Haven was one of the weakest issues on the list.

The curb was heavy.

Canadian Pacific was under pressure in London.

New Tariff and Political Outlook.

Republican politicians in Washington believe that if the Underwood tariff bill is passed it will provide their party with control of more States as well as of the United States Senate. Under the new Constitutional amendment thirty-two Senators will be nominated and elected by popular vote in 1914 for the term beginning March 4, 1915. Of these fifteen are now Democrats.

Free wool and free sugar, President Wilson has been told, will affect a number if not many of them. Among Senators said to be in danger are Chamberlain of Oregon, Thomas of Colorado, Smith of Arizona, Shively of Indiana, Newlands of Nevada and Smith of Maryland.

Oregon, Colorado, Arizona and Nevada are looked upon by Republicans as votes that can be easily captured if the Democratic tariff goes through. There are fifty-one Democrats in the Senate today. The loss of four votes would give the Republicans forty-nine and reduce the Democratic majority to a minority of forty seven.

London Copper Quotations.

The London copper warrants market was dull at the opening with spots £6 6d and futures 3s 9d lower.

It is understood in the metal trade that American consumers must soon enter the market and buying by them may be expedited now that foreign demand has increased. The producers are quoting 15¾ cents a pound of electrolytic abroad and it would not be surprising if prices were raised. Consumers, however, are not convinced that copper at present rates is the best bargain to be obtained. The weekly report by the Producers' Association is awaited with a great deal of interest.

The Old Dominion output for April was 3,040,000 pounds of blister copper, compared with 2,833,000 in March, and 2,167,000 in April last year.

According to an advance report by the U. S. Geological Survey, the 1912 smelter output of primary copper was 1,243,326,120 pounds, against 1,097,232,740 in 1911. The 1912 output was valued at $295,139,338, at an average of 10½ cents a pound, as compared with $157,154,602 for the previous year.

Playing for Big Break.

Concerning the traders who are working for lower prices in the stock market, the following from New York is interesting:

"The immediate last of the 'bear' party to lower prices has led to the coining by them of a new phrase. They designate themselves as 'Call Rumsey's investment stocks.' It is their proud boast that they are going to hold on for a long pull and they don't intend to be frightened from their position by any two points. In fact, they assert that they welcome these reverses as providing better opportunities upon which to put out additional short lines. The result is that the bear party is going to the conclusion that a big break in stocks is impending. The most remarkable feature of the present situation is the unprecedented observer holding off from the stock market this favorable opportunity to make a profitable argument against anything of the sort happening."

Gold Shipments Not Favored.

W. R. Lawson, financial correspondent for several newspapers, cables from London what is thought about the new movement of gold out of this country. He says:

"Serious bankers do not look with favor upon the renewal of gold shipments from New York to Paris. 'All of the big International gold movements,' they loomed up to the danger level, while the big new security issues which are coming along are bound to strain banking credit and resources."

Financial News in Brief.

It is understood that the R. Rumely Company's financial needs, estimated at a out $5,000,000, are to be met by loans from Chicago and New York banks. It is reported that it has suffered from overextension, and that $28,000,000 in orders were booked in 1912, while only $22,000,000 were finished, leaving $22,000,000 to be finance committee.

It is believed that what is restricting foreign buying of American stocks is bear sentiment in this country. The expected European demand is due to be forthcoming. The Balkan situation is regarded as practically settled and predictions of a renewed demand for securities have not been verified.

The May circular of the National City Bank of Chicago says about the new tariff: "The danger of later troubles in connection with the necessary readjustment of wages to the new order of things is probably the most serious feature of the whole matter."

The present position for prompt delivery of steel bars is about $2 a ton. Recently it was as high as $10. The decline shows how the demand has slackened.

The Union Oil Company, on which the General Petroleum Company has an option, soon will issue $2,000,000 6 per cent. collateral trust gold bonds out of an authorized issue of $4,000,000.

For the fiscal year ending with March last sales of the United States Rubber Company and subsidiaries aggregated $91,782,861, the greatest amount in its history. Net profits exceeded all dividend payments by $1,730,755, and net profits on net sales were about 8 per cent. At the end of the year there was a total surplus of $23,735,736, from which $7,000,000 was appropriated for reserve for depreciation, leaving a surplus of $16,735,736.

F. W. Woolworth Co. sales increased $195,923 in April, and the gain for four months was $2,302,190.

The New York sub-treasury gained $1,200,000 from the banks yesterday and since Friday has gained $3,144,000.

EDISON COMPANY ADOPTS PLAN TO PENSION WORKMEN

Hereafter the older employes of the Edison Electric Illuminating Company will be given a pension.

The "service annuity" plan adopted by the officers and board of directors makes $300 the minimum to be granted. Here are the three classifications:

Male employes at sixty-five, with fifteen years continuous service, to be retired.

Female employes at sixty-five to be retired at own request or at discretion of committee.

Male employes at sixty and female employes at fifty-five to be retired at discretion of committee after twenty years of service.

Employes who have completed thirty years of continuous service, irrespective of age, to be retired at discretion of the committee.

CHEMISTS TESTIFY AT WELLS TRIAL

ST. ALBANS, Vt., May 7.—Drs. B. H. Stone and C. F. Whitney of the State Laboratory of Hygiene were the principal witnesses at the trial today of Julius Wells of Swanton for the murder of his uncle, Edward Decenzo. Questioned as to the amount of arsenic found in the viscera of the children, Dr. Stone testified he found about forty-five grains. He said further that there were about fifty-five grains of arsenic in the can from the package of rat poison which Wells said he had used about the house.

THREE DROWN AS SKIFF OVERTURNS

CUXHAVEN, Germany, May 7.—Junior Lieutenant George von Zarzerew of the German navy and two sailors were drowned today off the island of Neuwerk when a skiff in which they were being rowed by a torpedo boat capsized.

The hearing of the case against Assistant Prosecutor Robert E. Brayton of Brockton, charged with the embezzlement of postal funds amounting to $2,400, was continued today until May 21 at the request of Brayton's counsel.

REPORT FIRE BILL

A bill to increase the powers of the Fire Commissioner in the city of Boston to reduce the fire hazard was favorably reported in the House today by the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs.

House Votes Down Amendments to Income Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, May 7.—The income tax, which political orators say, "will lift the excessive burdens of taxation from the shoulders o the poor," is under debate in the House today as the last pages of the Underwood tariff bill are being read.

Representative Graham offered an amendment to prevent mortgagors from paying direct to the government the tax levied on property owners. He declared the provision in the bill authorizing these persons to withhold the tax was dangerous.

Representative Hull, framer of the income tax amendment, declared such a provision had been in operation in England for fifty years and has given general satisfaction. The Graham amendment was voted down.

Representative Rogers of Massachusetts offered an amendment which would add to the list of associations and societies exempt from the tax, those of a scientific and benevolent nature, but it was rejected.

The income section of the tariff bill was voted down without material amendment by viva voce vote.

SPEAKER CUSHING OFFERS PROTEST ON PENSION BILLS

Speaker Cushing took the floor in the House today and protested against the policy of passing special pension bills. He moved that the pending bill to pension Thos Boston Municipal Court officers be referred to the next general court. Representatives Kinney of Ward 10, a Republican, and Sullivan and Robinson of Boston, Democrats, opposed the Speaker on the ground that the officers in question were as deserving as police county employes already beneficiaries.

Man Just Married, Wounded in Duel, Must Fight Again

PARIS, May 7.—A severe sword duel arising out of a quarrel three years ago was fought today between H. C. Berger, son of the Paris deputy, and Georges Breittmayer, both noted fencers, on the lawn of the Chateau d'Orly, about seven miles south of Paris, and resulted in Berger receiving a serious wound on the right breast.

Breittmayer afterward visited his wounded opponent at his home, and a reconciliation was effected.

The duel had been delayed because Berger had just married.

As soon as Berger has recovered he will fight a duel with another man.

GUILTY INSPECTOR MAY CONFESS ALL

NEW YORK, May 7.—That one of the four former police inspectors, Dennis J. Sweeny, James F. Thompson, James E. Hussey and John J. Murtha, who were found guilty of obstruction of justice last night after the jury had been out thirty-eight minutes, has made overtures to District Attorney Whitman regarding a confession was a persistent report about criminal courts building today. The four convicted men spent a bad night in the Tombs, and Sweeney seemed particularly worried. They will be arraigned for sentence Friday.

WILSON IS GETTING LONESOME ON JOB

WASHINGTON, May 27.—The President of the United States has a lonesome job, according to Woodrow Wilson. Secretary Tumulty says that on the way back from Trenton the President remarked: "It gets tiresome sitting in the executive office day after day. I wish I could get away often and meet people in an unofficial way."

Restore Our Merchant Marine by Keeping the Discount in Favor of American Ships in the Tariff Bill

Following foreign protests, the last of which was filed by the newly-arrived British Ambassador, there have been statements from Washington that it was the intention of the leaders of the House of Representatives to drop out of the tariff bill that sub-section which provides "that a discount of 5 per cent. on all duties imposed by this act shall be allowed on such goods, wares and merchandise as shall be imported in vessels admitted to registration under the laws of the United States."

We cannot believe these reports to be true. The purpose of this section is to make a beginning in the revival of American shipping over all the oceans. Today we carry ONLY 9 PER CENT. of our imports and exports in our own ships.

The policy proposed by Chairman Underwood in the framing of his tariff bill is an old, well-tried American policy. It was the policy adopted by the first Congress in 1789, re-enacted in 1790, 1794, 1795 and 1800. In 1804 it was again re-enacted in a tariff act which was approved and signed by President Jefferson.

That policy gave us FOR SEVENTY-TWO YEARS THE CARRYING OF 80 PER CENT OF OUR ENTIRE FOREIGN COMMERCE.

These figures, 9 PER CENT. NOW AND 80 PER CENT. THEN, fully explain these foreign protests, which are intended to kill off at once any beginning of a new American merchant marine. The protests are based on conventions abolishing such discriminating duties which the United States long ago entered into with Great Britain and other countries, twenty-two in all. But there is a section in the tariff bill suspending the operation of this 5 per cent. discount on tariff duties whenever it conflicts with an existing convention; and these conventions can be rendered void after due notice. The section, as it stands, is the merest beginning, but it represents a mighty principle for American advancement.

Mr. Underwood himself declared on the floor of the House three years ago: "It seems clear to me that the CONSTITUTIONAL AND EFFECTIVE WAY to restore the American ships to the seas is to return to the policy of the fathers."

"It does not place additional burdens on the people," added Mr. Underwood. "It has been tried and proved effective. It is a policy by which we can restore the American flag to the seas. It is a policy that will restore the balance of commerce, as well as trade, to our nation."

Is it possible that Mr. Underwood, who made that utterance, is now about to abandon that policy and drop the section from the tariff bill? Are his colleagues so timorous, so alarmed by these foreign protests that they would sacrifice the upbuilding of American shipping? Are these foreign protests being made from fear of any harm that may befall the United States by reason of such discrimination in duties? Are we never to serve notice on the world that America is going ahead as it pleases the wisdom of America?

That section stands in the bill in the interest of AMERICAN SHIPPING, and it seems inconceivable that Congress should for any reason at all abdicate to the representatives of foreign countries its constitutional right to legislate in the interest of the American people.

More Trouble for Happy Hooligan

Washington, May 1.—The Sunday Comic Supplement was characterized as a "deleterious influence" by Miss Annie E. Moore before the International Kindergarten Union here today, and a weekly series of colored funny pictures was planned to counteract the effect of the supplement "on the childish mind."—News Dispatch.

We humbly suggest to the solemn-minded Miss Annie E. Moore and her co-workers in the International Kindergarten Union that, if children are distracted from their kindergarten work by the comic supplements, the fault is with the kindergarten work and not with the comic supplements.

We know of many men, Justices of the United States Supreme Court, eminent clergymen, lawyers, engineers, writers and physicians who read and enjoy the comic supplements weekly and who never seem to suffer any "deleterious effect."

We know of millions of healthy, normal children who will grow up to be right-minded, useful citizens who delight in "Happy Hooligan" and "Howson Lot" and "Jimmy" and "Their Only Child" and "The Land of Wonderful Dreams."

This newspaper has since its first publication issued a comic supplement that is really comic, and which has gained a strong and lasting hold on the public mind. Its fun is wholesome and is as little harmful as laughter itself.

It is hardly to be wondered at that a child who has worn out his nerves stitching squares of cardboard together with colored worsteds will turn joyfully to pictures that he can understand and enjoy, that appeal to his hunger happiness.

If the ladies of the International Kindergarten Union could enlist the services of Opper and Swinnerton and McManus and McCay to teach them how to appeal to the coming citizens entrusted to their care it would be better for the coming citizens.

Without advance knowledge of "the weekly series of colored funny pictures" which the Union has planned, we venture to predict that most of the kindergarten children will cheerfully lay it aside to take up the Comic Supplement of the Sunday AMERICAN.

We regret that the members of the International Kindergaten Union feel that their work does not interest children as it should. This is not, however, the fault of the AMERICAN, or of the comic supplement. To interest a child is no easy art, as any honest teacher will admit. But it can be learned, and when the members of the Union shall have learned it they will not feel the need of decrying what they call the deleterious influence of the comic supplements, for they will be able to do as much to hold the attention of their charges on week days as the comic supplement does on Sunday.

Paris has decreed pockets for the women—side pockets at that. Cartoonist Harris not only agrees with the Paris mandate, but he goes it one better. He gives 'em all the pockets—with the problem, "which one is it in?" Then he suggests men might do away with the pocket habit and take up with the handbag.

PROFESSIONAL ADVICE

I sat in a suburban train—
There was no seat to spare—
Hermetically sealed each pane,
And rank the foggy air.

A dear old man with a kindly face,
With gentle voice and meek,
Leaned forward from his corner place,
And thus began to speak:

"My friends, I trust that none," he said,
"My hardihood will chide,
If I, to save an aching head,
This window open wide."

His gentle manner seemed to please,
All granted what he asked;
And soon in the refreshing breeze
That dear old person basked.

Fresh air, he said, was life to man,
The heritage of each,
And this conviction he began
With friendliness to preach.

The need for purer air, he moved,
Was no eccentric whim;
Wide open windows he approved,
They meant so much to him.

"Sound health," he said, "will be your crown,
Your babes be strong and bright,
If you will let your windows down,
Especially at night!"

Till, each slighting, said they meant
To follow his advice,
And turned to thank him as they went,
He seeemd so kind and nice.

I was the last who rose to go,
And, wishing him good day,
Remarked, "One thing I'd like to know—
Are you a doctor, pray?"

At that he shook the frosty rime
That crowned his honored head,
And bowing courteously, "I'm
A burglar, sir," he said.

The Question of Attorney's Right to Secure Acquittal of Defendant Whom He Believes Guilty—Things the World Over Are in a Thoroughly Confused and Agitated Condition.

Written for the Boston American by

DR. C. H. PARKHURST

THE question of a lawyer's right to secure the acquittal of a defendant whom he believes to be guilty is somewhat antiquated, but of so serious a character as to keep recurring no matter how many times it has been debated. Let us suppose, simply for the sake of argument and illustration, that in a case before a Court, the prisoner is guilty of the charge alleged against him. If he is guilty, his counsel is doubtless aware of his guilt. That being so, the counsel becomes an ally of the criminal and the exponent of a falsehood.

The first thing to think of is the effect on the counsel. No man can play with the truth without becoming himself more or less of a liar. After an effort that I once made to produce an impression upon a certain popular actress, she retorted upon me by saying that she had for so many years played a false part on the stage that she had lost the power to discriminate between what is true and what is false. By pretending to be what she was not, and by representing that to be true which she knew was false, the foundations of moral discernment had become unsettled.

What holds of an actress must hold equally of the members of any other profession. Constraining one's self into a changed mental or moral attitude for the sake of results is always demoralizing. It is the same as it is with an editorial writer who prepares Republican articles when he is on a Republican sheet, and then when he has shifted to a paper of the opposite complexion flavors his productions with a Democratic tincture.

A lawyer generally is a strong man, but if he is strong enough and invulnerable enough to handle tar without being tarred, he is exceptional to the quality of average humanity. But that is not quite the whole of the case. By seeking to acquit of guilt a man whom he knows to be guilty, he becomes an accomplice after the fact. He not only wrongs himself, but at the same time commits an assault upon the community by throwing back into its ranks, as an innocent man, a man who is not innocent, but a criminal. He practically deceives the public by giving to his client credentials of moral character which are undeserved. He does what I should be doing if I gave to a man, known by me to be dishonest, letters recommending him to any party desiring a trustworthy employe. Of course, the doctrine thus laid down does not interfere in any way with the right and duty of defendant's counsel to protect his client from any unjust treatment that he receives at the hands of the prosecuting attorney.

THERE is nothing disheartening in the fact that things, the world over, are in a thoroughly confused and agitated condition. They are that because this is a live world and filled with men of purpose and ideas. The only people who never turn over are the dead people. And because live people, when they turn over, do not all turn the same way, collision and friction naturally ensue.

Friction is not to be thought ill of, for it produces heat and sparks. Heat keeps society warm, and sparks are illuminating. Any new theory when first thrown into the air is likely to have as much error in it as truth. Dross and gold are mixed in the ore which must be smelted in order to separate the pure metal. History is a smelting process. Theories have to be tried out. History is a series of experiments. It is working all the time toward a safe, ultimate and unanimous conclusion, and the more there is going on the faster the world is getting results. China has been existing a good many centuries without any history. It has simply existed, not lived. The Orient and the Occident have now impinged upon each other there; temperature, accordingly, has risen; history is making. China has commenced experimenting. Theories of society and government are going to be tried out, with the usual result of half failures, but with a residue of bullion that will compensate the expense of smelting.

We here in the United States are deep in experiments. Our common school system is making for us a nation of thinkers, and the element of democracy involved creates us into independent and self-satisfied thinkers, and rather bigoted ones, each with his own religion, ethics, politics and political economy. What results is exactly what would be expected to result, a condition in which each is more or less seriously afflicted against his neighbor. It is not necessarily a state of unamiable hostility. We all love each other in a way, but we keep our frontier marked and the stakes down. Such a relation precludes the possibility of quietude, but it is the necessary outcome of the conditions which exist and undoubtedly make for progress.

We believe in high tariff, low tariff, no tariff. We talk what we believe, and bristle our feathers when the next man talks otherwise. But it is all healthy. It will all reappear in the final result. It will all show itself when the contents of the melting-pot have had time to cool. Let every man, therefore, who has ideas talk them the best he knows how. When the average has finally been struck it will prove itself to be the best possible for the general whole. Chaos is the stuff that system is made out of.

Would Symbolize Whole State at Panama-Pacific Exposition

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear sir—How to represent Massachusetts, on the exposition grounds at San Francisco, is well worth the study the State at large and your valuable paper are making.

Liberty, law, culture, industry, to be typically represented as the corner stones of this Commonwealth, should embrace the erection of duplicates of:

Old Faneuil Hall, representing liberty and the real cradle of Yankee thought;

The State House, representing our lawmaking, for the benefit of our citizens and emulate the whole Union;

Harvard, to emphasize the marvellous development of science and culture, benefiting the whole human race.

The Worcester Mechanics Hall, duplicated to represent the industrial advantages and advancement of the Bay State.

The schoolhouse, with a full complement of the diversified branches of education that obtains in this State.

Within these few buildings could be accommodated the various industries and interests without entailing an excessive outlay of money. Each county, with regards for its geographical position, could thus represent itself by its many or special industries, giving a true picture of actual life in the old Bay State, each building bearing on its frontage a description of its own origin for the benefit of the uninitiated, with the glorious State shield over the outer door of each building. This is my modest but seemingly effective idea to herald our present condition in the harmonious sisterhood of the Union.

Very respectfully yours,

JOSEPH A. GENDRON.

North Adams, May 3, 1913.

Time to Get Busy

The Post prints today, under the above caption, the following editorial:

We trust there is no truth in the rumor that Governor Foss is lukewarm on the matter of the State's representation at the Panama Canal exhibition or that the Committee on Federal Relations is not going to formulate an appropriation bill for the purpose until it hears directly from the Governor as to how much he will "stand for." Neither attitude would be very creditable.

A part, at least, of the appropriation ought to be made at this session of the Legislature, for the deed of gift of the site for the State building provides that building operations must be under way by next September, or the title lapses. While this might not be an insuperable difficulty, it would be bothersome, and ought not to be permitted to happen.

It seems to be up to the Committee on Federal Relations to go ahead and recommend an adequate appropriation for the fair—not an extravagant sum, but enough to insure a proper place for Massachusetts among the other important States. It ought not to be very hard to find out just what that sum is.
